STATE AGENTS LEAD SURPRISE DRIVE IN CITY

Accuse 7 of Illegal Possession And Sale of Whisky; Police, Deputy Sheriffs Aid.

STRIKE SIMULTANEOUSLY

Tell of Making 'Buys' of Beer And Liquor In Past Month; 7 Face Other Charges.

Fourteen persons were in jail today, seven charged with the illegal possession and sale of whisky without a permit and seven on other charges after state liquor agents led police and a deputy sheriff on a series of early morning raids of six alleged bootlegging establishments.

First of the raids was made at 2:30 a. m. when the officers struck almost simultaneously at three different addresses. Within the next 20 minutes they visited two other places, both in the north end, and an hour later staged their last raid on North Main street.

Arrest Woman First.

The officers first raided 216½ North Main street, where they arrested the proprietress, Anna Smith, colored, and charged her with the illegal possession and sale of liquor.

At almost the same time another squad led by a second agent raided 21½ East Third street, and arrested Samuel Miller, while other officers were raiding 171 Wayne street and took the proprietress, Dorothy Williams, into custody. Both were charged with illegal possession and sale of whisky without a permit.

Visiting a second floor apartment at the rear of 247 North Main street, 10 minutes later, the raiders arrested the proprietoress, Rosalie Petrick, colored, and her companion, Essick Martin, also colored, and two other women and four men.

The Petrick woman was charged

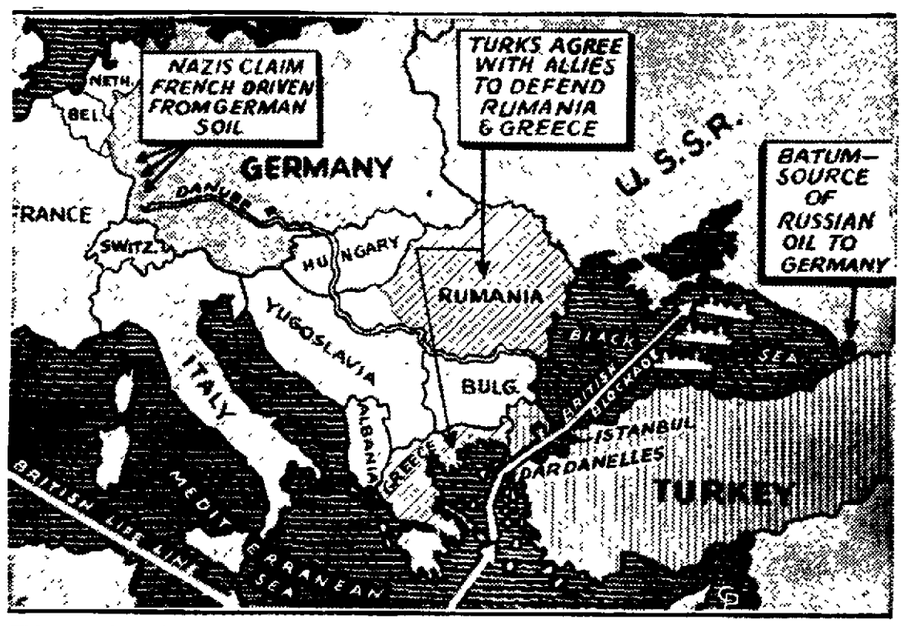
How Turkish Pact Aids Allies



This map shows how England and France should benefit through their mutual assistance pact with Turkey. Turkey affords Britain a rode through the Dardanelles to the Black sea where she can back up her guarantees to Rumania, blockade Russia's oil supplies from Batun to Germany and, at the same time, obtain oil supplies for her own use from Rumania. The new setup virtually forces Italy to remain neutral or, perhaps eventually to cast her lot with the Allies. The Balkan combination of Turkey, Rumania and Greece is expected to aid greatly the blockade now in force against Germany.

Declare Turks Drawn Close to War By Treaty

German And Russian Statements Show Resentment Over Mutual Aid Accord With British, French; Hitler Plans Conference With Il Duce, Report.

BULLETIN

BERLIN—(UP)—On orders from Fuehrer Adolf Hitler all Nazi party district leaders from all parts of Germany have come to Berlin, the United Press learned today.

(By United Press)

Germany and Russia clearly displayed their resentment of Turkey's mutual aid pact with France and Great Britain today.

First official Soviet comment appeared in the newspaper Izvestia which said that, in negotiating the treaty with Turkey, Britain and France had failed to drive a wedge between Germany and Russia but have succeeded in drawing Turkey into the orbit of the war.

Russia and Germany showed their recognition of the importance of the Ankara pact. In Berlin Fuehrer Adolf Hitler, after conferring with his envoys to Rome, Moscow and Ankara, planned personal consultations with Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy.

Russia recognized that the treaty creates a new balance of power in the eastern Mediterranean and warned that as the major Black sea power, Russia would watch carefully anything relating to the Dardanelles approaches to the sea.

The Turks, preparing to ratify the treaty within a week, gave informal warning that unless Russian policies change, Turkey will be drawn closer and closer to the Allied cause.

Turks Warn Reds.

The Turks indicated that Soviet persistence in maintaining its alliance with Germany would damage Russo-Turkish friendship, already strained by the breakdown of the Moscow negotiations for a Russo-Turkish pact. Turkey refused to sign with Russia because the demands of the Kremlin conflicted with Turkey's obligations to the French and British.

Pope Pius XII instructed his nuncio to Berlin to protest against the treatment of Catholics in portions of Poland under German occupation.

The Vatican received a report listing 117 religious homes and 211 churches that had been closed in the German occupation area.

Clarification of and possible settlement of Finland's relations with Russia were in prospect as a Finnish delegation prepared to return to Moscow where, on Monday, it will submit to the Kremlin a reply to Russian demands for a "mutual aid" pact. The Finns hoped they would escape Soviet domination.

Their hope was based on the new situation created by the

PRESS FOR VOTE ON NEUTRALITY

Senate Leaders Consider Move To Limit Debate To Assure Balloting Next Week.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The senate leadership considered today a move to limit debate and thus assure a vote on the neutrality revision bill late next week.

The restriction probably will be put to a test Monday after the three-weeks-old general floor debate ends and balloting on amendments begins.

Unanimous consent is required to invoke a limitation. Senators Clark, (D.-Mo.) and Nye, (R.-N. D.), opponents of the administration's proposal to repeal the arms embargo, have opposed such a move in the past, but the whole opposition group intended to confer during the day to decide what attitude it would take if a curtailment motion were made.

Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic leader predicted the senate would act quickly when the bill was read for amendments next week.

Seven or eight amendments have been introduced. Senator Lodge, (R.-Mass.), indicated he or some other New England senator would move to relax further the

Bubble Dancer On Way To Keep Date With Manville

MAMARONECK, N. Y. — (UP) — Tommy Mannville is lonesome but he isn't looking for another wife, he said today at Bon Repos, his mansion with 21 telephones.

He is bringing Elinor Troy, 23-year-old brunet bubble dancer here from Hollywood by special chartered airplane to have lunch with him.

Miss Troy said in Hollywood as she climbed aboard the 28-passenger air liner for the trip that cost Manville $2,600, that he was bringing her here to marry her immediately at the Little Church Around the Corner.

HITS POLITICS IN BIGELOW'S PLAN

Speaker Charges He Hopes to Use Pension Move to Win Governor Nomination.

Herbert S. Bigelow, author of the $50-a-month pension plan, would take money from those who need it and give it to those who don't so he can be nominated for governor next year, Frank B. Pauly, of the Ohio Emergency committee, said last night in a talk at the American Legion home.

Speaking against the Bigelow amendments, Pauly said the author of the pension and referendum amendments was "sending them along ahead to make a path to the governorship."

A former newspaper man now affiliated with the Ohio Retail Merchants' association at Columbus, Pauly spoke before about 60 persons here under the sponsorship of the Richland county unit of the Ohio Emergency committee which is opposing the Bigelow amendments.

Bigelow is circulating nominating petitions for governor which would place his name on the ballot at the primary next May. His pension plan and proposal to reduce the number of names required to place an amendment on

ENDORSES LOCKE

County Workers Alliance OK's G.O.P. Mayor Candidate.

The Richland County Workers Alliance at a session last night endorsed William J. Locke, Republican, for mayor and John R. Sawyer for Madison township trustee on a non-partisan ticket.

The Alliance, a union of WPA workers, also approved the Bigelow pension plan and described opponents to the plan as "well-known anti-labor tories who oppose all progressive and reform measures."

Locke said today that the endorsement was unsolicited and that he did not appear before the Alliance or talked with its officers.

The organization requested an investigation of the supervision of WPA household aid projects in Mansfield, contending that conditions were "unbearable" and that women employed on the projects had been "insulted" in several homes.

POPE PROTESTS

Objects to Nazi Treatment of Catholics In Old Poland.

VATICAN CITY —(U.P.)— Pope Pius has instructed Monsignor Cecare Orsenigo, Apostolic Nuncio at Berlin, to protest to the German government against the treatment accorded Catholics in that part of Poland occupied by Germany, it was said authoritatively today.

It was said that the Pope sent Monsignor Orsenigo a detailed report, compiled from communications forwarded to the Holy See by ecclesiastical authoritives of Poland, listing specific charges of mistreatment of Catholics.

The report lists 50 serious incidents and asserts furthermore that a number of religious homes have been closed, that some priests have been injured and that members of religious orders have been arrested on political charges.

MOTHER OFFERS TO SELL AN EYE

Tennessee Woman Sets Price at 5,000 For Cornea.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. —(AP)— A mother of five children waited today for a person willing to pay $5,000 for the cornea of one of her eyes.

"We are tired of this business of being on relief," said middle-aged Mrs. Grace Davis in explaining why she would sell the sight of an eye.

Speaking without emotion as she stood barefoot in her cottage door, Mrs. Davis said, "this is a great sacrifice but I would gladly make it for my children who have not had a chance."

The cornea is the transparent window in front of the pupil of the eye. An operation sometimes will restore sight to persons with corneas scarred by accident.

CREW RESCUED

Norwegian Vessel Saves 19 After Torpedo Sinks Ship.

STOCKHOLM —(AP)— Torpedoing and sinking of the Swedish steamer Gustaf Adolf was reported to her managers today by a Norwegian vessel which rescued the crew of 19.

The report said the Gustaf Adolf sank north of the Shetland islands. The vessel left Gothenburg, her home port, last Tuesday for England. (Lloyd's register lists the Gustaf Adolf as a vessel of 925 tons.)

BLOW UP SPAN

French Destroy Bridge, Canal On Rhine River at Border.

BASLE, Switzerland — (AP) — Heavy detonations shook windows in Basle today when a French bridge and dam across the Huningen canal, eight miles to the north, were blown up. It was understood the French blew up the bridge and dam for strategic purposes. The canal at that point is about a mile west of, and is parallel to, the Rhine which forms the frontier of Germany.

ADMITS ROBBERY

Orrville Man Gives Up, Says He Robbed Train In 1909.

WARREN —(AP)— Sheriff Ray Hardman reported today that William Smith, 50, alias Charles O. Edwards, had walked into the Trumbull county jail and confessed a 1909 mail train robbery in Pennsylvania.

The sheriff said Smith gave his address as Orrville, O., and explained he had spent most of his fugitive years on the west coast. Sheriff Hardman quoted Smith as saying he obtained $750.

CALLS BUSINESS SPURT 'SOLID'

Westinghouse Head Says Recovery Not Result of European War.

PITTSBURGH — (AP) — Andrew W. Robertson, chairman of the board of Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, said today upon his return from a tour of the midwest that the current business upswing was not the result of war orders but of solid business recovery.

He was convinced that unless something unforeseen occurs, American prosperity will not disappear even if the European conflict ends tomorrow. Robertson pointed out that a new rush of Westinghouse orders included none from foreign nations.

He reported the midwest is in so prosperious a condition that no one found time to even discuss New Deal policies.

PLANS BIG LOAN

Finns Ask $9,300,000 Fund; Negotiations Near Climax.

HELSINKI — (AP) — Finland moved today to float a defense loan of 500 million markka (about $9,300,000) as she neared a showdown in her relations with Russia.

Apparently "morally strengthened" by the recent Stockholm conference, in which she participated with Norway, Denmark and Sweden, Finland ordered her former premier, Dr. Juho Kusti Paasikivi, back to Moscow to resume talks expected to reach a turning point soon.

PORT CLINTON, —(AP)— The bodies of Philip Leibovitz, 19, and Louis Millstein, 36, Toledoans who drowned in Lake Erie while on a fishing trip 10 days ago, were found yesterday by a fisherman.

AT THE FRONT: French Give Hitler 10 More Days To Strike

BULLETIN

LONDON—(AP)—The air ministry announced that German aircraft had made an attack on a British convoy this afternoon and were driven off by British planes and anti-aircraft fire.

(By International News Service)

PARIS—French military authorities today gave Germany ten days at the most to start an offensive on the western front.

If the present heavy rainfall continues that long, no drive will be possible for the rest of the winter, it was said.

With the time drawing short for a big push by either side, France today sped preparations to settle down for a long, dogged struggle featured by aerial and naval activity.

At an emergency meeting of key members of the cabinet under Premier Edouard Daladier today, it was decided to use every means to increase the production and distribution of food and armaments.

At the same time, prices will be stabilized and imports will be limited.

Certain regulations regarding foreigners also were discussed by the ministers.

That a considerable supply of money and materials could be expected from France's colonial empire was stated to the group by Georges Mandel, minister for colonies.

Continued calm, with only minor patrol and artillery activity, was reported today from the front, due

TRAGEDY: Sea Burials, 67 Missing---'Glory' For Nazi Sub

(By United Press)

BORDEAUX, France—A woman watched the body of her husband consigned to the sea from the deck of the American freighter Independence Hall—another had lost her four children.

These were two of the individual tragedies the little American ship brought up the Gironde river from the sea last night. She carried 284 survivors of two torpedoed British ships and their stories revealed a tragic adventure, poignant and dramatic.

The first check-up indicated that 61 persons were missing from the passenger liner, Yorkshire, 10,133 tons, an Indiaman, and six or seven from the freighter City of Mandalay, 7,023 tons. All were believed dead.

Last Monday some 400 miles off Bordeaux, the Independence Hall picked up an SOS from the Yorkshire. She rushed to the position given and found the City of Mandalay standing by the stricken vessel.

Capt. C. J. MacKenzie, master of the Independence Hall, was about to exchange the usual pleasantries by radio and continue his course when he saw the second ship buckle in the water. She seemed about to break in two. She had been torpedoed by a then unseen submarine and nine minutes later she plunged.

She was the freighter, City of Mandalay.

Captain MacKenzie lost no

END CHECK-UP

Two State Examiners Complete Inspection of County Books.

Robert Wead and John Romer, state examiners, completed their inspection of Richland county offices today. They have been checking county records at the courthouse for the past six months.

Their reports will be submitted to the state bureau of supervision and inspection of public offices. Later, a report of the examiners' findings will be turned over to county officials.

HI, CHUM! YOU LOOK LOW-DOWN!
AM I IN A JAM.
IT'S THE CLASS FUND -- YOU KNOW, I'M TREASURER -- I'VE USED MONEY FROM IT -- [-- [-- JUST BORROWED IT -- HONEST --- I REALLY INTENDED TO PUT IT BACK --"

CAN YOU KEEP A SECRET? IT'S FOR TINY." HE USED MONEY FROM THE CLASS FUND -- HE'S SIMPLY GOT TO PAY IT BACK!"
I'LL BE KICKED OUT OF SCHOOL IF THEY FIND ME SHORT! YOU'VE GOT TO HELP ME!" --- -- BECAUSE IT'S ETTA'S FAULT, TOO -- I SPENT IT ALL ON HER!"
THAT'S RIGHT! IF HE MISUSED THE FUNDS TO SHOW YOU A GOOD TIME, YOU'RE AS MUCH TO BLAME AS HE IS!"

IT'S LOCKED! THEY'RE HOLDING A SECRET CLASS MEETING!
I HEAR BEEZEY'S VOICE." THAT SNAKE-IN-THE-SHRUBBERY IS UP TO NO GOOD."
GET THIS, I'M NOT INSINUATING ANYTHING, -BUT I'VE BEEN SEEN 'TINY IN PLACES HE CAN'T AFFORD." I WAS JUST WONDERING WHERE HE GETS THE FARE?
LISTEN, BEEZEY! -- THAT'S KINDA RAW!
HE'S CLASS TREASURER." HE'S ONLY HUMAN - AND IT'S A BIG TEMPTATION TO HAVE SO MUCH MONEY WHERE YOU CAN LAY YOUR HANDS ON IT!"
WELL! GUESS IT WOULDN'T DO ANY HARM TO GO OVER THE BOOKS!
I'LL TIL
IS EARS DOWN J USE 'EM FOR SNOWSHOES!
KEEP YOUR BRAKES ON!
I'VE BROADCAST IT ALL OVER THE CAMPUS THAT TINY SWIPED THE CLASS FUNDS," NOW TO SPILL THE BEANS TO ETTA!
HERE COMES BEEZEY!
HE'S AT THE BOTTOM OF THIS PLOT TO WRECK TINY!" --- AND I'M NOT GOING TO LET HIM GET AWAY WITH IT!"
TINY'S FATHER HAS WORKED HARD TO PUT HIM THROUGH SCHOOL -- IT'D BE A TOUGH BREAK IF HE GOT KICKED OUT NOW ---
WELL, THERE'S ONE FRIEND I CAN DEPEND ON AND THAT'S ETTA!
HEY! NOW THAT YOU WON'T BE SEEIN' ANY MORE OF TINY -- HOW ABOUT WEARIN' MY RING?
I'D LOVE TO." I HAVEN'T BEEN ENGAGED IN WEEKS!
BEEZEY! TRYING TO SNAKE HER AWAY!

WHY, YES!" ETTA, PUT IN ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS!" BUT DON'T TELL HER I TOLD YOU!" SHE WANTED IT KEPT SECRET!
SO THE LIL' JELLY BEAN MADE UP THE SHORTAGE! -- AND AFTER THE MANGY WAY I TREATED HER!"
YOU WERE SWELL TO PUT THAT MONEY IN THE BANK TO COVER MY SHORTAGE!" -- I'LL NEVER REPAY YOU EXCEPT WITH KISSES!

Battered President Harding Docks With 73 Injured

SHIP STRUCK BY HURRICANE OVER ATLANTIC

Passengers Dashed Against Walls by 100-Foot Wave; Cabin Boy Drowned.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Twenty-six persons were removed on stretchers from the United States liner President Harding today when the storm-battered vessel arrived after one of the most tempestuous and dramatic voyages in modern maritime annals.

Eyes were blackened, bones fractured and bodies bruised by tumbling furniture and heaving decks when the 13,869 ton liner was caught by a howling hurricane after rescuing the crew of the torpedoed British freighter Heronspool.

Altogether, 73 passengers and crew members were injured in the storm, but all except the 26 most seriously hurt were able to walk by the time the ship docked.

A cabin boy, Paul (Red) Johnson, was washed overboard and lost when a mountain wave broke over the decks.

Johnson, a recent graduate of the University of Wisconsin, was making his fourth trip on the ship. Because of his death, the President Harding's flag was at half mast when she arrived.

The hurricane, which had eluded meteorologists as a result of war-time restrictions on weather reports from ships at sea, struck the liner approximately 800 miles east of Boston Tuesday night.

Passengers said most of the injuries were caused by one huge wave, propelled by a 110-mile-an-hour wind. Some said it was 100 feet high.

A fleet of ambulances and stretcher bearers waited at the dock when the vessel arrived.

Most of those severely injured were in the smoking room aft when the wave keeled the ship over to starboard. Tables, chairs, smoking stands and pottery slithered across the floor, pinning passengers against the wall.

Down below, Frederick Stover, chief butcher, was passing through a galley door when a pile of pots and pans knocked him to the floor.

"Except for that I would have been all right," he said. "Getting knocked down slowed me up just enough for me to be caught in a flood of boiling water and scalding grease that tipped over from a stove.

"I didn't known I was so badly hurt, and with my clothes stuck to me, I knew I was burned all right, but I walked through a passage toward my bunk and I saw a couple of men, and I waved my arm and said to them, 'get out of my way boys. I'm hurt'."

He was taken to a hospital.

Bobby Vernon, actor and singer whose name appeared on a passport as Ralph Keller, of Los Angeles, explained the distress call that led to medical supplies being rushed to the President Harding by the coast guard cutter Hamilton.

"Our ship's hospital was wrecked in the storm and our bandages and other supplies were ruined," Keller said.

After the big wave hit, Keller said, the smoking room "was a shambles and full of horrible scenes."

"People were piled in heaps and furniture was splintered and smashed," he said. "Human legs were sticking out of piles of broken table legs and chairs."

Of the 598 passengers, 321 were American citizens.

200 Sporting Dogs Compete Sunday in Fairground Show

Nearly 200 of North Central Ohio's best sporting dogs will compete in the fourth annual dog show Sunday afternoon at the Richland county fairground.

Sponsored by the Richland County Fish and Game Protective association, the show will bring dog fanciers from the northern half of Ohio to Mansfield and more than 1,000 persons are expected to attend the event.

Ribbons will be awarded winners in the bird dog, beagle hound, fox hound and coon dog divisions. Judging of entries begins at 1 p. m.

One of the programs features will be a drag race in which coon dogs will run. Fred Richland will have charge of the race.

Up and Down THE STREET

Residents of the county infirmary now know what they mean by "talkie pictures." They remember seeing Mary Pickford, Bill Desmond, Douglas Fairbanks and other favorites of the silent era, but last night was the first time that the majority ever heard the pictures talk when Thomas Butler, projectionist at the Ritz theater, presented a "sound" show at the infirmary.

They're going in for kiddie cars at the Y. M. C. A. Men and boys alike will soon be riding the toys around the gymnasium, not in play but for the exercise. Donald Cram, physical director, said he found this is one of the best ways to loosen leg muscles and to get leg exercises, and he plans to adopt the idea just as soon as enough cars are rounded up.

People who have an idea that okra (or gumbo) is strictly a southern grown vegetable which can be obtained only after it has been shipped in here, should see the stalk grown by L. N. Bryant, 192 West Third street, in his garden. While okra ordinarily grows only about three and a half or four feet in the warm climate of the south and the West Indies, one stalk in the Bryant garden was nine feet tall and held 26 pods at one time. Mr. Bryant had about two dozen stalks this past summer which yielded two cuttings a week.

A small boy in a Mansfield school escaped a peddling the other day because the principal couldn't find the special paddle he had been saving for the boy. Reprimanded previously by the principal, the boy was told that his initials would be written on a paddle and it would be used on him the next time he misbehaved. When the youth was called into the principal's office again for punishment, the principal searched in vain for the paddle. So the boy got off with another warning.

Nearly 100 hardware men from ten counties in this part of the state attended the annual dinner meeting the Ohio Hardware association at the Mansfield Leland hotel last night.

VERSATILE PAIR GIVES PROGRAM

Musician And Wife Play 8 Instruments In 3rd Concert In City Park Series.

A versatile pair of musicians comprising the Di Crosta-Ferrari company played eight instruments last night on the third program in the Mansfield Public Parks association's entertainment festival at the First Congregational church.

Playing the piano, clarinet, saxophone, trombone, accordion, banjo, guitar, and ocarina, Andrew Di Crosta and Leñora Ferrari, his wife, entertained with a variety of numbers, ranging from hymns to the "Twelfth Street Rag."

In addition to her instrumental music Miss Ferrari sang some popular ballads, semi-classical numbers and comedy songs.

Her singing of a medley of "popular songs of yesterday" and her imitations of an old lady surprised at the modern generation were well received.

Another highlight of the program was the playing of "The Carnival of Venice" on ocarinas by both entertainers.

The final program in the series of four will be given in the church Friday night when the play, "Youth Carries a Torch" will be presented by a professional cast. The play, written by Jonathan Lucas, involves the discovery of a death ray which makes armaments obsolete.

DESCRIBES NAZI OPPRESSION OF JUSTICE AT COUNTY BAR DINNER

Members of the Richland County Bar association heard a story of almost unbelievable oppression of justice and perverted court practices in Nazi Germany at their dinner meeting yesterday at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

The speaker was Dr. Ernst Fraenkel, German refugee and formerly an attorney in Berlin who told of the hardships of law practice under Nazi rule.

Since 1933, when Hitler placed Germany under virtual martial law, there have been two states in Germany—the political and legal, and the political often interferes with the legal, Dr. Fraenkel said.

"The courts still function in Germany," he said, "but the decisions and decrees are subject to revision by the Nazi secret police who can step in at any time if the verdict does not please the police."

Only the lawyers who belong to the Nazi inner circle prosper, while the others have to take their chances with the dictatorship, he asserted. When an attorney obtains a judgment for a client, he doesn't know whether he will collect the judgment or the police will rule that the decision was illegal and void, Dr. Fraenkel added.

"A person accused of a crime cannot obtain counsel for his offense without a certificate from the government entitling him to defense," the speaker explained.

There is no free speech in Germany and a person may be arrested for something that someone else overheard him say, Dr. Fraenkel said. He cited an instance where one youth was arrested and sent to a concentration camp for something he was alleged to have said although it was proved that the statement came from a magazine 10 years old.

The bar association unanimously endorsed renewal of the three-mill school levy at the Nov. 7 election. The resolution was submitted by Atty. George W. Biddle.

Atty. W. H. Gifford presided at the meeting, and Atty. Joseph A. Bayer, program chairman, introduced the speaker.

GETS 60 DAYS ON INTOXICATED DRIVING CHARGE

Akron Man's License Revoked For Year as Result of Route 42 Accident.

Samuel W. Taylor, 25, an Akron truck driver, who figured in an accident on U. S. route 42, northeast of Mansfield yesterday which resulted in a second accident and the death of a Cleveland driver, was sentenced to 60 days in county jail when he pleaded guilty in municipal court today to a charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol.

Taylor's chauffeur's license also was revoked for one year.

State highway patrolmen who filed the charge said Taylor's truck rammed into the rear of a machine operated by Miss Anna Ruth Palm, of Lexington early yesterday while both vehicles were traveling east.

Miss Palm lost control of her car and the machine plunged down a 15-foot embankment and into a field. She was unhurt.

Stops In Highway.

Taylor stopped in the highway, officers said, and a second truck, also east bound was flagged down by another driver who had stopped at the accident scene.

It was while the trucks were standing in the highway in a dense fog that another paint and oil laden truck operated by Clarence Loy, Cleveland, struck into the parked truck, caught fire and Loy burned to death.

Sterling Tinkey, Cleveland, the driver who had been flagged down, said he was just emerging from his truck when the crash occurred. Before he could get to the rear of his vahicle he said Loy's truck burst into flames.

Loy's body was removed from the wreckage nearly four hours later after the fire had subsided and was taken to Cleveland yesterday for burial.

The charges against Taylor were filed late yesterday after Assistant County Prosecutor Harold T. Lutz had interviewed numerous witnesses at the crash scene.

Two investigators from the Public Utilities commission from Columbus also visited the scene and inspected the freight trucks but declined to comment on their findings.

PRESS JAPAN

U. S. Takes New Steps to Halt Terrorism In China.

SHANGHAI —(INS)— American authorities tonight applied the strongest pressure on Japan to force a termination of the dangerous situation arising from a wave of terrorism attributed to Japanese-dominated Chinese.

The crisis reached a peak last night when a Chinese policeman was shot and killed and an Indian Sikh, a British subject, was gravely wounded.

Further outbreaks, it was feared, might endanger Americans living outside the International Settlement.

Raymond H. Gauss, United States consul, conferred with Japanese military authorities, in the hope that an amicable settlement can be brought about.

Not That It Matters

'Fair Means' Seems a Bit Puzzling - Cavalcade Gives Tip On What Movies Need

—By JANE WILLIAMS

THE REASONING process of human beings sometimes leaves me a little confused, not to say muddled. One day this week an industrial workers' group—made up of people who are paying for small, modest homes—voted their approval of the Bigelow pension plan because it provides "ample provisions for the aged from taxes to be collected by unmistakably fair means."

That last crack left me groping. This is what they call "unmistakably fair means":

A man who has accumulated a fortune and is now retired owns as a hobby 1,000 acres of good farm land, which with its improvements is worth about $200 an acre. That's $200,000 worth of land. He won't pay any taxes under the Bigelow plan on that land—but he'll draw the Bigelow pension.

Not very far from his farm is a small city in which hundreds of men and women are working to pay for small homes. The lots are small enough that there are seven or eight homesites on an acre of ground. The homes are listed as real estate at the county tax office—and if you think real estate isn't taxed according to its improvements, ask the county treasurer—and are listed at an average of $4,000 apiece.

That acre of ground is tax valued at $32,000 and each home owner will be taxed $80 a year in addition to all of his other real estate taxes. And that is what the Mansfield industrial group calls "unmistakably fair means."

BUT that isn't the big catch in the Bigelow plan for the thousands of old couples who are dependent upon the state for an existence. The bill, which, as Westbrook Pegler said in his column Thursday night, is sloppily written, provides that the pension, either to single persons or married couples, can only be paid when the recipient is "RETIRED FROM A GAINFUL OCCUPATION."

Therefore a woman who has spent her entire life raising her family and who continues to keep her own home, is barred, because, even if housewives were rated as wage earners—and they aren't—she is not eligible for the pension because she isn't retired.

And that means that only the man will receive the $40 a month which is specified for one of a couple and who is not listed as a single person. Therefore a couple now receiving $46 a month under the present Ohio old age pension plan, would receive only $40. And the state, in sheer financial desperation will hew to the line, so that getting on the pension list will be far more difficult than it has been under the present system.

And what of the year or perhaps year and a half that the old people will be without any pension if the bill passes? If the Bigelow amendment is passed, it will automatically cancel all other legislation that conflicts with it, meaning the present pension for old people. But taxes for the new bill can't be raised for another year. What are they supposed to do in that year? Take temporary shelter in the poor houses?

DID you see "Hollywood Calvacade" this week? If you did it may have occurred to you that the reason the movie industry is dead on its feet is because they aren't throwing custard pies any more in the movies. The pie-throwing episode with lovely Alice Faye on the custard end of it, and the chase of the daffy Keystone Kops, kept the audiences in gales of laughter.

I'm sort of tired of problem dramas and college rah-rahs. I actually stay away from the movies when I know my emotions are going to be raked over a grater. Sometimes, when I'm very tired of war talk and death and taxes, I'd walk a mile to see a good pie throwing contest. They satisfy.

NEWSPAPER women from all over Ohio will converge on Dayton this week-end for the annual shop talk convention. It gets under way with a dinner party at the Dayton Country club with General Motors as host.

There's the annual contest luncheon Saturday noon with $800 in prizes to be awarded to the gals who have turned out the "best" work the past year. In the afternoon a football game, a tea at 5 and the banquet at the Biltmore hotel at 7. This year's speaker is Doris Fleeson, president of the National Women's Press association and Washington correspondent for the New York News.

Sound interesting? Three News-Journal scribes are off in a cloud of dust.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Sees Bigelow Plan Paving Way For Bolshevism and Confiscation In Our Ohio

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

CLEVELAND—The two little home-made constitutional knickknacks which the people of Ohio will vote upon Nov. 7—one providing old-age pensions which may cost twice the entire present state revenues, the other proposing to retire the legislature—are pre-operative painkillers to prepare the state for confiscation and bolshevism.

The pension proposal provides for payments to persons over 60 and, although it is incoherent in spots, nevertheless its intent is clear on one point.

It holds that one particular group, in this case an age group, is entitled to a division of the prosperity of those who have saved, inherited or otherwise acquired some. Those who want a share of their neighbor's possessions may award themselves that share by popular vote and collect it through taxation.

This is a little different from the familiar purpose of taxation. The taxes would not be used for the maintenance of the state. The state would have no claim on the money and get no share of it. The state would act only as collector and turn the money over to a preferred group, and even the costs of collection would be borne by the victims.

But there is nothing to restrict this benefit to persons over 60 or to limit the payments to the amounts proposed.

The age minimum might be reduced to 50, 40 or 30 or just eliminated altogether. The payments might be $500 a month. Lump sums of $5,000 could be voted to members of groups or to all hands. Poverty or need is no requirement.

It makes no difference that an elderly couple are receiving an income of $10,000 a year from investments or inheritance or from a daughter who married Tommy Manville. They still are eligible, or, anyway, the old gentleman is, provided he retires from a wage-earning occupation. He may still earn a big income as a lawyer, doctor, banker, speculator, capitalist-farmer or merchant. Fees, commissions and profits are not wages. As to mamma's eligibility, there is some doubt. If she always has been a home body apparently she is out, but if she ever earned wages, even for a week, however long ago, she is "retired" from gainful occupation as a "wage-earner" and is in.

At this point a curtain will be drawn over the unmanneriy spectacle of the whole population of a proud and enlightened American state throwing everything up for grabs, and we will unzip the No. 2 amendment and see what is in it.

This one is a liberalization or frustration of the initiative and referendum which was adopted with deep solemnity about 1913.

At present, to place on the ballot a proposal to amend the constitution or to enact a law, the initiators must obtain about a quarter of a million signatures, subject to verification, of citizens residing in at least 44 of the 88 counties. These provisions were adopted to prevent abuse of the great reform.

The new proposal would reduce to 100,000 the number of signatures required to place on the ballot a proposal to amend the constitution and to 50,000 the number necessary to submit a proposed law. Moreover, it would permit the people of any one big city or populous district, with a special, local or group interest, to provide all of the signatures.

It is this item on the ballot which would permit the submission of the real grab bag proposals to popular vote, such as pensions of $100 a week for tired young men of 30.

Nothing stands between the people and all this except the final and most reliable democratic defense, the will of the people themselves.

Battered President Harding Docks With 73 Injured

SHIP STRUCK BY HURRICANE OVER ATLANTIC

Passengers Dashed Against Walls by 100-Foot Wave; Cabin Boy Drowned.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Twenty-six persons were removed on stretchers from the United States liner President Harding today when the storm-battered vessel arrived after one of the most tempestuous and dramatic voyages in modern maritime annals.

Eyes were blackened, bones fractured and bodies bruised by tumbling furniture and heaving decks when the 13,869 ton liner was caught by a howling hurricane after rescuing the crew of the torpedoed British freighter Heronspool.

Altogether, 73 passengers and crew members were injured in the storm, but all except the 26 most seriously hurt were able to walk by the time the ship docked.

A cabin boy, Paul (Red) Johnson, was washed overboard and lost when a mountain wave broke over the decks.

Johnson, a recent graduate of the University of Wisconsin, was making his fourth trip on the ship. Because of his death, the President Harding's flag was at half mast when she arrived.

The hurricane, which had eluded meteorologists as a result of war-time restrictions on weather reports from ships at sea, struck the liner approximately 800 miles east of Boston Tuesday night.

Passengers said most of the injuries were caused by one huge wave, propelled by a 110-mile-an-hour wind. Some said it was 100 feet high.

A fleet of ambulances and stretcher bearers waited at the dock when the vessel arrived.

Most of those severely injured were in the smoking room aft when the wave keeled the ship over to starboard. Tables, chairs, smoking stands and pottery slithered across the floor, pinning passengers against the wall.

Down below, Frederick Stover, chief butcher, was passing through a galley door when a pile of pots and pans knocked him to the floor.

"Except for that I would have been all right," he said. "Getting knocked down slowed me up just enough for me to be caught in a flood of boiling water and scalding grease that tipped over from a stove.

"I didn't known I was so badly hurt, and with my clothes stuck to me, I knew I was burned all right, but I walked through a passage toward my bunk and I saw a couple of men, and I waved my arm and said to them, 'get out of my way boys. I'm hurt'."

He was taken to a hospital.

Bobby Vernon, actor and singer whose name appeared on a passport as Ralph Keller, of Los Angeles, explained the distress call that led to medical supplies being rushed to the President Harding by the coast guard cutter Hamilton.

"Our ship's hospital was wrecked in the storm and our bandages and other supplies were ruined," Keller said.

After the big wave hit, Keller said, the smoking room "was a shambles and full of horrible scenes."

"People were piled in heaps and furniture was splintered and smashed," he said. "Human legs were sticking out of piles of broken table legs and chairs."

Of the 598 passengers, 321 were American citizens.

Trucker in Fatal Crash Sentenced to Jail

Up and Down THE STREET

Residents of the county infirmary now know what they mean by "talkie pictures." They remember seeing Mary Pickford, Bill Desmond, Douglas Fairbanks and other favorites of the silent era, but last night was the first time that the majority ever heard the pictures talk when Thomas Butler, projectionist at the Ritz theater, presented a "sound" show at the infirmary.

They're going in for kiddie cars at the Y. M. C. A. Men and boys alike will soon be riding the toys around the gymnasium, not in play but for the exercise. Donald Cram, physical director, said he found this is one of the best ways to loosen leg muscles and to get leg exercises, and he plans to adopt the idea just as soon as enough cars are rounded up.

People who have an idea that okra (or gumbo) is strictly a southern grown vegetable which can be obtained only after it has been shipped in here, should see the stalk grown by L. N. Bryant, 192 West Third street, in his garden. While okra ordinarily grows only about three and a half or four feet in the warm climate of the south and the West Indies, one stalk in the Bryant garden was nine feet tall and held 26 pods at one time. Mr. Bryant had about two dozen stalks this past summer which yielded two cuttings a week.

A small boy in a Mansfield school escaped a peddling the other day because the principal couldn't find the special paddle he had been saving for the boy. Reprimanded previously by the principal, the boy was told that his initials would be written on a paddle and it would be used on him the next time he misbehaved. When the youth was called into the principal's office again for punishment, the principal searched in vain for the paddle. So the boy got off with another warning.

VERSATILE PAIR GIVES PROGRAM

Musician And Wife Play 8 Instruments In 3rd Concert In City Park Series.

A versatile pair of musicians comprising the Di Crosta-Ferrari company played eight instruments last night on the third program in the Mansfield Public Parks association's entertainment festival at the First Congregational church.

In addition to her instrumental music Miss Ferrari sang some popular ballads, semi-classical numbers and comedy songs.

Her singing of a medley of "popular songs of yesterday" and her imitations of an old lady surprised at the modern generation were well received.

Another highlight of the program was the playing of "The Carnival of Venice" on ocarinas by both entertainers.

The final program in the series of four will be given in the church Friday night when the play, "Youth Carries a Torch" will be presented by a professional cast. The play, written by Jonathan Lucas, involves the discovery of a death ray which makes armaments obsolete.

DESCRIBES NAZI OPPRESSION OF JUSTICE AT COUNTY BAR DINNER

Members of the Richland County Bar association heard a story of almost unbelievable oppression of justice and perverted court practices in Nazi Germany at their dinner meeting yesterday at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

The speaker was Dr. Ernst Fraenkel, German refugee and formerly an attorney in Berlin who told of the hardships of law practice under Nazi rule.

Since 1933, when Hitler placed Germany under virtual martial law, there have been two states in Germany—the political and legal, and the political often interferes with the legal, Dr. Fraenkel said.

"The courts still function in Germany," he said, "but the decisions and decrees are subject to revision by the Nazi secret police who can step in at any time if the verdict does not please the police."

Only the lawyers who belong to the Nazi inner circle prosper, while the others have to take their chances with the dictatorship, he asserted. When an attorney obtains a judgment for a client, he doesn't know whether he will collect the judgment or the police will rule that the decision was illegal and void, Dr. Fraenkel added.

"A person accused of a crime cannot obtain counsel for his offense without a certificate from the government entitling him to defense," the speaker explained.

There is no free speech in Germany and a person may be arrested for something that someone else overheard him say, Dr. Fraenkel said. He cited an instance where one youth was arrested and sent to a concentration camp for something he was alleged to have said although it was proved that the statement came from a magazine 10 years old.

The bar association unanimously endorsed renewal of the three-mill school levy at the Nov. 7 election. The resolution was submitted by Atty. George W. Biddle.

Atty. W. H. Gifford presided at the meeting, and Atty. Joseph A. Bayer, program chairman, introduced the speaker.

GETS 60 DAYS ON INTOXICATED DRIVING CHARGE

Akron Man's License Revoked For Year as Result of Route 42 Accident.

Samuel W. Taylor, 25, an Akron truck driver, who figured in an accident on U. S. route 42, northeast of Mansfield yesterday which resulted in a second accident and the death of a Cleveland driver, was sentenced to 60 days in county jail when he pleaded guilty in municipal court today to a charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol.

Taylor's chauffeur's license also was revoked for one year.

State highway patrolmen who filed the charge said Taylor's truck rammed into the rear of a machine operated by Miss Anna Ruth Palm, of Lexington early yesterday while both vehicles were traveling east.

Miss Palm lost control of her car and the machine plunged down a 15-foot embankment and into a field. She was unhurt.

Stops In Highway.

Taylor stopped in the highway, officers said, and a second truck, also east bound was flagged down by another driver who had stopped at the accident scene.

It was while the trucks were standing in the highway in a dense fog that another paint and oil laden truck operated by Clarence Loy, Cleveland, struck into the parked truck, caught fire and Loy burned to death.

Sterling Tinkey, Cleveland, the driver who had been flagged down, said he was just emerging from his truck when the crash occurred. Before he could get to the rear of his vahicle he said Loy's truck burst into flames.

Loy's body was removed from the wreckage nearly four hours later after the fire had subsided and was taken to Cleveland yesterday for burial.

The charges against Taylor were filed late yesterday after Assistant County Prosecutor Harold T. Lutz had interviewed numerous witnesses at the crash scene.

Two investigators from the Public Utilities commission from Columbus also visited the scene and inspected the freight trucks but declined to comment on their findings.

PRESS JAPAN

U. S. Takes New Steps to Halt Terrorism In China.

SHANGHAI —(INS)— American authorities tonight applied the strongest pressure on Japan to force a termination of the dangerous situation arising from a wave of terrorism attributed to Japanese-dominated Chinese.

The crisis reached a peak last night when a Chinese policeman was shot and killed and an Indian Sikh, a British subject, was gravely wounded.

Further outbreaks, it was feared, might endanger Americans living outside the International Settlement.

Raymond H. Gauss, United States consul, conferred with Japanese military authorities, in the hope that an amicable settlement can be brought about.

Not That It Matters

'Fair Means' Seems a Bit Puzzling - Cavalcade Gives Tip On What Movies Need

—By JANE WILLIAMS

THE REASONING process of human beings sometimes leaves me a little confused, not to say muddled. One day this week an industrial workers' group—made up of people who are paying for small, modest homes—voted their approval of the Bigelow pension plan because it provides "ample provisions for the aged from taxes to be collected by unmistakably fair means."

That last crack left me groping. This is what they call "unmistakably fair means":

"A man who has accumulated a fortune and is now retired owns as a hobby 1,000 acres of good farm land, which with its improvements is worth about $200 an acre. That's $200,000 worth of land. He won't pay any taxes under the Bigelow plan on that land—but he'll draw the Bigelow pension.

Not very far from his farm is a small city in which hundreds of men and women are working to pay for small homes. The lots are small enough that there are seven or eight homesites on an acre of ground. The homes are listed as real estate at the county tax office—and if you think real estate isn't taxed according to its improvements, ask the county treasurer—and are listed at an average of $4,000 apiece.

That acre of ground is tax valued at $32,000 and each home owner will be taxed $80 a year in addition to all of his other real estate taxes. And that is what the Mansfield industrial group calls "unmistakably fair means."

BUT that isn't the big catch in the Bigelow plan for the thousands of old couples who are dependent upon the state for an existence. The bill, which, as Westbrook Pegler said in his column Thursday night, is sloppily written, provides that the pension, either to single persons or married couples, can only be paid when the recipient is "RETIRED FROM A GAINFUL OCCUPATION."

Therefore a woman who has spent her entire life raising her family and who continues to keep her own home, is barred, because, even if housewives were rated as wage earners—and they aren't—she is not eligible for the pension because she isn't retired.

And that means that only the man will receive the $40 a month which is specified for one of a couple and who is not listed as a single person. Therefore a couple now receiving $46 a month under the present Ohio old age pension plan, would receive only $40. And the state, in sheer financial desperation will hew to the line, so that getting on the pension list will be far more difficult than it has been under the present system.

And what of the year or perhaps year and a half that the old people will be without any pension if the bill passes? If the Bigelow amendment is passed, it will automatically cancel all other legislation that conflicts with it, meaning the present pension for old people. But taxes for the new bill can't be raised for another year. What are they supposed to do in that year? Take temporary shelter in the poor houses?

DID you see "Hollywood Calvacade" this week? If you did it may have occurred to you that the reason the movie industry is dead on its feet is because they aren't throwing custard pies any more in the movies. The pie-throwing episode with lovely Alice Faye on the custard end of it, and the chase of the daffy Keystone Kops, kept the audiences in gales of laughter.

I'm sort of tired of problem dramas and college rah-rahs. I actually stay away from the movies when I know my emotions are going to be raked over a grater. Sometimes, when I'm very tired of war talk and death and taxes, I'd walk a mile to see a good pie throwing contest. They satisfy.

NEWSPAPER women from all over Ohio will converge on Dayton this week-end for the annual shop talk convention. It gets under way with a dinner party at the Dayton Country club with General Motors as host.

There's the annual contest luncheon Saturday noon with $800 in prizes to be awarded to the gals who have turned out the "best" work the past year. In the afternoon a football game, a tea at 5 and the banquet at the Biltmore hotel at 7. This year's speaker is Doris Fleeson, president of the National Women's Press association and Washington correspondent for the New York News.

Sound interesting? Three News-Journal scribes are off in a cloud of dust.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Sees Bigelow Plan Paving Way For Bolshevism and Confiscation In Our Ohio

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

CLEVELAND—The two little home-made constitutional knickknacks which the people of Ohio will vote upon Nov. 7—one providing old-age pensions which may cost twice the entire present state revenues, the other proposing to retire the legislature—are pre-operative painkillers to prepare the state for confiscation and bolshevism.

The pension proposal provides for payments to persons over 60 and, although it is incoherent in spots, nevertheless its intent is clear on one point.

It holds that one particular group, in this case an age group, is entitled to a division of the prosperity of those who have saved, inherited or otherwise acquired some. Those who want a share of their neighbor's possessions may award themselves that share by popular vote and collect it through taxation.

This is a little different from the familiar purpose of taxation. The taxes would not be used for the maintenance of the state. The state would have no claim on the money and get no share of it. The state would act only as collector and turn the money over to a preferred group, and even the costs of collection would be borne by the victims.

But there is nothing to restrict this benefit to persons over 60 or to limit the payments to the amounts proposed.

The age minimum might be reduced to 50, 40 or 30 or just eliminated altogether. The payments might be $500 a month. Lump sums of $5,000 could be voted to members of groups or to all hands. Poverty or need is no requirement.

It makes no difference that an elderly couple are receiving an income of $10,000 a year from investments or inheritance or from a daughter who married Tommy Manville. They still are eligible, or, anyway, the old gentleman is, provided he retires from a wage-earning occupation. He may still earn a big income as a lawyer, doctor, banker, speculator, capitalist-farmer or merchant. Fees, commissions and profits are not wages. As to mamma's eligibility, there is some doubt. If she always has been a home body apparently she is out, but if she ever earned wages, even for a week, however long ago, she is "retired" from gainful occupation as a "wage-earner" and is in.

At this point a curtain will be drawn over the unmannerly spectacle of the whole population of a proud and enlightened American state throwing everything up for grabs, and we will unzip the No. 2 amendment and see what is in it.

This one is a liberalization or frustration of the initiative and referendum which was adopted with deep solemnity about 1913.

At present, to place on the ballot a proposal to amend the constitution or to enact a law, the initiators must obtain about a quarter of a million signatures, subject to verification, of citizens residing in at least 44 of the 88 counties. These provisions were adopted to prevent abuse of the great reform.

The new proposal would reduce to 100,000 the number of signatures required to place on the ballot a proposal to amend the constitution and to 50,000 the number necessary to submit a proposed law. Moreover, it would permit the people of any one big city or populous district, with a special, local or group interest, to provide all of the signatures.

It is this item on the ballot which would permit the submission of the real grab bag proposals to popular vote, such as pensions of $100 a week for tired young men of 30.

Nothing stands between the people and all this except the final and most reliable democratic defense, the will of the people themselves.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1939.

Drive carefully tomorrow—and remember that trains have the right of way at grade crossings.

Few things are more interesting than to note the improvements that have been made on last year's "perfect car."

Those Germans whom Hitler is ordering back home from the Balkan states had been away for around 300 years—and the fuehrer seems to think they have overstayed their leave of absence.

Not an Additional Tax

AN IMPORTANT issue is to be presented to Mansfield voters on a small ballot which they will receive when they go to the polls on November 7.

It is for renewal of the 3-mill tax levy, which, for the past fifteen years has provided a substantial part of funds required for operation of Mansfield public schools.

Sanction for continuance of this levy is required every five years and this marks the end of the five-year period for which the tax was approved by Mansfield voters in 1934.

Only apparent danger is that some voters, if not fully informed, might regard this as an additional tax—WHICH IT IS NOT—it merely continues the 3-mill levy, outside the 10-mill limitation, and is essential to maintenance of the Mansfield public school system at the high standards which have been attained and which the people of this community have frequently heretofore evidenced a willingness and desire to support.

In considering this 3-mill levy proposal, and in discussing it with other persons between now and election day, make sure of clear understanding that this is NOT AN ADDED TAX—that it merely renews a small tax which has been in effect for fifteen years and which is necessary in financing a nine-months school term in Mansfield.

Story of One Farm Boy

AN EIGHTEEN-YEAR-OLD BOY who has been at it four years is dubbed the Star Farmer of America. During this period, while doing the chores on his father's farm and going to school as usual, Norman W. Kruse, of Loretta Nebraska, has built up a working capital of $2,570 and earned $2,000 besides.

And "to him that hath shall be given." For that success, he gets a prize of $500 at the American livestock show in Kansas City and the cheers of his fellow Future Farmers of America.

Norman started in 1935 with two shorthorn heifers and three spotted Poland sows on his father's 400-acre farm. Now he has four litters of pigs, three milking shorthorns, five heifers, 12 ewes, 50 acres of corn, 45 acres of barley, four baby beeves and 10 acres of sorghum, and the home farm has expanded to 840 acres.

These details may not interest the young fellow in the office who has just had a raise and is now almost living on his salary. But it may seem to many people that Norman is living real life, doing real things and rapidly getting somewhere.

Defeat Should Be Overwhelming

WHILE it may appear to some persons that unnecessary emphasis is being placed on the importance of defeating the proposed Bigelow pension amendment to the state constitution, all of the energy being expended will be justified if both of the Bigelow proposals can be so overwhelmingly beaten that Ohio voters will hereafter be spared the annoyance of being intermittently confronted with variations of such visionary schemes.

Rev. Bigelow's proposal to give a pension of $50 a month to single persons above the age of 60, or $80 a month to married couples living together, would place an unbearable tax burden on the people of Ohio and would sacrifice other operations of state government, such as support of schools, colleges, welfare institutions, highway maintenance, unemployment compensation, public works, aid of dependent children, blind relief, etc., as pension requirements would be a first claim on state funds.

Rev. Bigelow has long been recognized as the type of thinker who can be excused for formulating such a Utopian idea, without any realization of its impracticality. But thoughtful voters of the state cannot be so readily excused for not immediately recognizing that this is another example of "wishful thinking" rather than a sound proposal which could be financed if enacted.

Bigelow's second proposal, to reduce the number of signatures required to place an amendment or law on the ballot, is also a vicious measure, as it would open the way for constant cluttering of ballots with all sorts of sectional, crank and "lunatic fringe" propositions, which would have to be voted down at each election, as is now being experienced in California, the state which stands as a horrible example of nutty notions.

Both of the Bigelow amendment proposals should be defeated by such convincing majorities that other potential promoters of similar schemes will realize the futility of presenting them to Ohio voters.

Colorful New Autos

WHEN the fortieth national automobile show opened its doors in New York City the other day, visitors found the most colorful collection of new models ever assembled. As they proceeded to examine the various displays, they found that changes in design had created not only new beauty but new roominess, comfort, efficiency, safety and ease of handling.

One exhibitor who rambled about listening to visitors and talking to many of them reported that "buying interest" was 50 per cent greater than at last year's show.

Auditory Denture

HUMAN SENSES seem to be getting strangely interchangeable. Deaf mutes hear with their fingers, and now a couple of Omaha inventors have found a way for the deaf to hear with their mouths. It is done with a denture. In plain English, users of this device will hear with their artificial teeth.

A tiny microphone, complete with storage batteries and two contacts which touch the jawbone, catches sound vibrations and, by means of a miniature diaphragm, transmits them to the ears through the bony structure of the mouth.

When longer and louder speeches are made it will probably be Hitler who will make them.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — Leafing through faded old clippings in the library, clippings that tell dim tales of an older New York. . . . A tale of the Hawk tavern, in the Street of the Grunting Pig. . . . There was once a street in New York by that name. . . . All streets had sobriquets. . . . The Street of the Horse and Carriage. . . . The Street of the Witches Brew. . . . This last one must have been a cutie. . . . It derived its name from the wild spirits the sailors and adventurers drank there in taverns, along the waterfront. . . .

In the Street of the Witches Brew one night came Captain Hammer, a two-fisted, grog-loving master of an English ship. . . . He had the bar-maids fetch him cup after cup . . . and finally he rested his head on the table and went to sleep. . . . The maid tried not to waken him. . . . There was much smoke in the tavern, and the candles were burning low. . . . About daybreak, after Captain Hammer had sat bowed over his table for several hours, she approached him timidly. . . . She knew he should be aboard his ship. . . . She placed her hand gently on his shoulders. . . . Then she leaped back, and screamed. . . . For Captain Hammer was dead. . . . A knife had been driven between his shoulder blades, up to the hilt. . . . No one ever knew who did it, or how.

IF YOU wander over to the east side, say about 60th street, you will come to the site of the old Dove Tavern. . . . It isn't there any more. . . . As best I can figure it out the tavern was where a great New York church is today. . . . But the Dove has a place in history. . . . That was where Captain Andre, the British spy, was hanged. . . . Papers incriminating Benedict Arnold and himself were found in his boots. . . . They took him to the Dove on a sunlit morning. . . . They say he was very brave and very handsome and that the ladies who gathered to witness the scene wept when they drove the carriage out from under him.

Then there is Rose street, scene of as grisly a murder as New York has ever known. A Portuguese, in the year 1817, sawed off his fiancee's head with a knife, and fled to West Virginia, or rather that section of Virginia which is now West Virginia. . . . But they caught him, and hanged him here in the city. . . . Once I attempted to explore the scene of that crime . . . I think the number on Rose street was 96. . . . But I couldn't find it. . . . The street, a narrow, ugly, twisted little passageway, began somewhere to the left of the Asiatic quarter and lost itself under the second arch of the Brooklyn bridge.

BUT it was Pine street that provided the police with one of its most baffling mysteries, back there in the early days of this country. . . . A boarding house which was run by a Welchman and his wife became the home of a young Colonial officer and his bride. . . . They were out in front of the house, watching the pigs root through the muddy street one afternoon when a man on horseback galloped up and flung himself off his panting nag. He handed the officer a package of papers. The officer read one of the papers and turned to the dispatch bearer, but the man was already on his way down the street.

Hastily looking around, the officer grabbed his bride's hand and drew her into the house. They retired to their room, and shortly after that a pistol shot brought other members of the household banging at the door. There was no answer. When the door was battered down they found nearly a thousand dollars in gold on the bed, which was covered with blood. But there were no bodies. The officer and his bride had apparently disappeared in thin air. To this day no one has ever learned what happened to them.

HOW LONG WILL IT LAST?

Army Man to Handle Wage-Hour

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — The second of President Roosevelt's agencies for handling relief and labor problems has been placed in the hands of an army man.

Elmer Andrews, administrator of the Wage-Hour division, just resigned and was replaced by Lt. Col. Philip B. Fleming of the army engineers.

The Works Projects Administration for some time has been managed by Col. F. C. Harrington, trim and vigorous successor to Harry Hopkins.

Just why Andrews went is a mystery to more than one. Of the several labor-aiding agencies created under the New Deal, the Wage-Hour administration has been the most popular, or at any rate, the least unpopular. Probably no one thing was the complete answer to the change. Underlings in the administration say it was an accumulation of troubles that were carried so often and so vociferously to the president that he felt a change necessary as a "safety valve."

Textile Trouble.

ONE prickly commentator attributed the routing of Andrews to envious opposition from Madame Perkins, secretary of labor. We ran into a flat denial of that from one source, who said he was in a position to know that the two got on better than average.

Nevertheless, it is to be recalled that there was friction, or an appearance of friction, in the beginning as to whether Andrews should be financed by appropriations entirely apart from the labor department, or whether he should be just a wing under Madame Perkins. The house tried to make him independent but the senate joined him to the labor department and there he has remained during the year or more the agency has been a going concern.

Chief criticism has arisen on three fronts—in the textile wage adjustments, in the question of whether upper-bracket wage and salary classes should be exempt, and, finally, in the definition of agricultural brackets, which are exempt.

The textile war probably was hottest. Southern mill operators went straight to the president with a protest against Andrews' failure to work out a wage differential that would preserve their advantage due to low-cost labor. The president expressed some preference for the principle of wage differentials but the south failed to get it from the textile committee, on which they were outvoted. A blanket 32½ cent an hour minimum rate on cotton textile workers, effective Oct. 24, reaches into the south just as it reaches New England. New England already is paying such wages in most sections, so the heaviest effect was felt in the south.

Fleming Contrasts.

ANDREWS drew especial fire from some labor groups when he submitted recommendations for amendments to the Wage-Hour law to exempt from the hour limitations all employes drawing $250 or more a month. He had not volunteered the amendments, but made them only at the request of the house labor committee, which wanted to know his views. In turn, he angered one group of house members by opposing their effort to exempt all labor getting $150 or above. Labor groups said this would rob them of merited overtime pay.

Andrews, a slender, slightly stooping figure, is not the fiery type of executive most popular these last half-dozen years. He moved into the $10,000-a-year job from the $12,000-a-year post at the head of the New York state labor administration.

Colonel Fleming, now in the office of engineers on the upper Mississippi, is pictured in contrast as a bundle of energy, a joy to FDR.

Listen, World!

You Can Take Your Choice!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

TROUBLED TIMES, these. New Problems—new pressures. Tons of evidence, pro and con. Tidal waves of arguments. All the old values smashed . . . all the new ones under trial by fire. Nothing sure—nothing settled.

WHAT CAN YOU BELIEVE? WHAT'S TRUE . . . WHAT'S FALSE? HOW CAN YOU BE SURE?

You can't! BUT YOU CAN TAKE YOUR CHOICE!

Another man once asked the questions you are asking today. He asked them thousands of years ago but the times were as perilous—and his heart as puzzled as yours. More puzzled—for a greater burden lay upon him. You are a common citizen. He was King David—fearsome and fabulous ruler of Israel—mighty monarch over a seething empire . . . hero, philosopher, poet and priest as well. Yet, sitting there on the flat roof of his palace, gazing out across the twisting streets of Jerusalem and the star-lit lengths of the deserts, he wondered, just as you are wondering—

"WHAT CAN I BELIEVE? WHAT CAN I TRUST? WHAT IS TRUE AND WHAT IS FALSE? LASTING AND SURE?"

It was not the first time he had asked those questions. Long ago, in the hot eagerness of his youth, with the glory of his power fresh upon him he had asked them. But—though the land rang with his praise and the treasure of the world was his for the taking—he had found no answer. But he looked.

He had looked . . . in the great, golden courts . . . in the glittering streets . . . in the glamorous gutters. Looking . . . looking . . . looking for the meaning of Life. For the Truth that should set him free and make his sure. Looking . . . looking . . . while the years slipped away . . . and the bright curls of his youth turned gray . . .

AND now he was old. The streets had lost their glitter and the gutters their glamour . . . and desire lay like ashes on his lips. But still — though little else mattered any more—the old question gnawed as fiercely as ever. WHAT WAS THE TRUTH? WHAT COULD A MAN BELIEVE? HOW COULD A MAN BE SURE? An old man with his life behind him, sitting there in the night, with bowed shoulders and weary eyes, wondering . . . wondering . . .

Suddenly his shoulders straightened . . . and the fire flashed in his eyes and his hands clenched trembling. For across that sleeping desert he was seeing something he had observed all his life, yet never truly seen before. He was seeing the hills! The high, clear hills he had known and loved as a shepherd boy. The simple, sure, serene hills that had always been!

Why had he wasted his time in the muck and mockery of courts and gutters . . . in the endless babbling voices and the questions that were never answered and never would be. What was the human tangle all about? He didn't know. He never would know. King though he was, he would never be able to truly tell the False from the Fine.

But he could take his choice! HE COULD CHOOSE THE FINE FROM THE FALSE . . . THE HIGH FROM THE LOW . . . THE CLEAN FROM THE FOUL. HIS SOUL COULD DWELL WHERE IT PLEASED . . . AND IT PLEASED TO DWELL IN THE HILLS!

He had found the answer at last!

"I WILL LIFT UP MINE EYES TO THE HILLS," he whispered. "TO THE HILLS FROM WHENCE COMETH MY HELP!"

Readers Forum

Welcomes Sunday Issue.

Editor News-Journal:

It was with pleasure that I read your announcement last week, that you have decided to publish a Sunday edition, beginning October 29th.

Yesterday, when I was in the library, I had occasion to mention The News-Journal to Mr. Lippert, who is head of the newspaper room; and he said that it is one of the most popular papers in the entire room of about 200 papers—foreign and domestic. He also said that due to its popularity, they would probably add the Sunday edition to their present subscription.

Your paper is considered as one of the cleanest sheets in the state, by those who have expressed their opinion to Mr. Lippert.

Incidentally, I never miss my daily trip to the library. Sometimes it is exclusively for the purpose of reading the latest news of Mansfield, and Richland county. Your paper is just like a letter from home.

EARL H. QUICK.

Summary of Week's Happenings

—By ASSOCIATED PRESS

NOT ONLY map-makers are being harassed by the world's shifting boundaries. Every change means a new refugee problem. Groups seeking to aid the persecuted find Europe's current war is both making rescue work more difficult and adding greatly to the number of persons who live in fear.

France still is supporting 100,000 Spaniards afraid to go back to Franco's Spain, plus 50,000 German Jews and many White Russians. Britain, Belgium, Holland and Switzerland are holding about 100,000 more Germans.

Now, with war, Germany is putting able-bodied Jews to work and forbidding them to leave the country. And in Poland, millions of Polish Jews are trapped in German-dominated territory. Thousands more are fleeing to Russia's half of Poland.

New Obstacles.

These new problems were pondered Tuesday at the White House, where the president told representatives of 32 nations they must speed efforts to find vacant spots on the globe where refugees can be settled permanently. "When this ghastly war ends," he warned, "there may not be one million but 20 million."

From the White House, refugee workers went to the state department to discuss two new obstacles to helping German Jews: (1) Nazis aren't eager to fulfill their promise to help evacuate 175,000 annually; (2) war-busy France and Britain can't offer much aid now.

The conferees decided their first task was to remove 60,000 Germans stranded in neutral countries. Where can they be sent? One spot being seriously considered is the Philippine Island of Mindanao, where Japanese have gained dominance.

The Big Debate.

Refugee worries distracted Washington's attention only momentarily from the senate debate on revision of the neutrality law.

Just when the argument was lagging, Col. Lindbergh had set the debaters barking along new trails. In a radio talk last weekend, he urged a ban on sales of "offensive" weapons only, and reproached Canada for drawing this hemisphere into war. Sooner or later, he said, the Americas must be freed "from the dictates of European power."

Senator Lundeen of Minnesota promptly suggested that the U. S. grab the West Indian possessions of France and Britain in lieu of unpaid war debts. Administration backers hopped on both Lundeen and Lindbergh.

In a move to ensure passage of the bill to repeal the arms embargo, administration forces agreed to drop a clause permitting 90-day credits, and to modify the bill to permit U. S. ships to trade with possessions of warring nations outside "combat areas." Majority Leader Barkley predicted a vote "sometime next week."

At Home

Court Report.

Uncle Sam's trust-busters lost a pair of preliminary court bouts some months ago when federal judges:

1. Dismissed proceedings charging 57 individuals, corporations and organizations with conspiracy to fix milk prices, control the supply and suppress competition in the Chicago area;

2. Set aside convictions and ordered a new trial of 12 oil companies and five of their officers or employes on a charge of conspiring to raise gasoline prices in 10 mid-western states.

Both cases were accepted by the supreme court this week for review. The justices also consented to pass on a lower-court decision denying CIO' Amalgamated Utility Workers the right to press a charge of contempt against Consolidated Edison company of New York, Inc., for alleged violation of an NLRB order. The circuit court had held that, if any contempt had been committed, NLRB was the proper party to prosecute such charges.

Auto Style Show.

The automotive industry, sparkplug of American business for nearly two decades, describes itself today as the nation's No. 1 buyer of gasoline, lubricating oil, rubber, steel, malleable iron, mohair, plate glass, nickel and lead.

This week, at the national automobile show in New York, motormakers unveiled their 1940 models. Potential buyers found them generally longer, lower, roomier, more dazzling and a little cheaper than last year's cars. Most were equipped with the new "sealed beam" headlights, and one line had a "fluid drive" that eliminates both clutch pedal and gearshift lever.

As to the sales outlook:

"The United States should have a $70,000,000,000 income in 1940," exulted General Motors' president, William S. Knudsen, "and unless prices are allowed to inflate beyond what is sensible on the basis of production cost, automobile output can be expected to reach 3,800,000 vehicles plus." That would be some 10% over 1939, which is running 33% over 1938.

Dies Development.

By January, Rep. Martin Dies and colleagues will have used up the $125,000 and 12 months that congress gave them last winter to root out un-Americanism. But "due to the international situation," the committee said this week, it has "hundreds of important leads" that cannot be developed without more time and money. So it has decided to ask congress, perhaps at the current special session, to provide more of both.

Abroad

Blockade Blocked?

Britain's blockade brought the Kaiser's Germany to her knees in 1918. And the normal inflow of supplies from foreign sources to Hitler's Germany, the U. S. department of commerce estimated this week, already has been cut in half by the new war. But Germany's industrial capacity, the Foreign Policy association noted, is "far superior" to 1914.

With the little nations of southeastern Europe, which normally sell or swap nearly half their exports to Germany, Nazis recently have been dickering for increased war supplies. A survey this week showed the Balkans had agreed only to keep trade at peace-time pace. But a British official admitted reports of Russian gold shipments to Germany were "not without foundation."

Low-Down on High-Ups.

Britain, her prime minister told parliament this week, is winning the war on the propaganda front. Latest barrage was the publication Tuesday of the more intimate reports by Sir Nevile Henderson, former ambassador to Berlin, on the men he met there:

"The corporal of the last war (Hitler) . . . was anxious to prove what he could do as a conquering generalissimo in the next . . . Goering would have preferred a peaceful solution, but it was Hitler's decision alone that counted."

Labor

Wage-Hour Statistics.

A year go next Tuesday, the federal government put a floor under wages (25c an hour) and a ceiling over hours (44 a week) of an estimated 12,000,000 workers on payrolls of 450,000 employers in interstate industries

So far, say that law's enforcers: Preliminary investigations of 22,000 complaints indicate 11,000 violations, many unwilful; 46 criminal cases have been filed, and 28 defendants tried have pleaded guilty and paid fines totaling $80,850, 44 civil injunctions have been sought, 38 granted.

And next Tuesday's rise in the wage minimum to 30c an hour and drop in the maximum workweek to 42 hours, these officials figure, will mean bigger paychecks for 650,000 workers and shorter hours or overtime pay for 1,100,000.

Detroit Dispute.

Employes in a majority of Chrysler motor plants, in an NLRB election last month, named CIO's United Auto Workers as their bargaining agent. UAW, charging a company speed-up, then demanded—besides a union shop, higher wages and paid vacations—a voice in determining production schedules. And the company, charging a union slow-down, closed its main Dodge plant.

By this week, as paralysis spread to other units, 55,000 men were idle and production of 1940 models was stalled. Bargaining conferences then were resumed, while state officials pressed mediation efforts to prevent a strike that would affect 70,000 to 80,000 workers in all Chrysler plants. Balloting plant-by-plant, UAW leaders announced the men were voting authorization for such a general walkout by 10-to-1 margins.

Science

Surgeons' 3-Year Plan.

Besides being ill-fed, ill-clothed and ill-housed New Dealers say, a third of the nation is ill-protected against sickness. Medical societies are inclined to dispute such blanket statements, but many of their members admit that middle-income folks, especially, could do with more and better doctoring: The rich can afford the best, they explain, and the poor are adequately taken care of by public or private charity.

The American College of Surgeons, meeting this week in Philadelphia, put its stethoscope to the problem of proper surgical treatment for persons of moderate resources—and wrote this prescription: A there-year system of super-training for 500 new surgeons each year.

Crime Conference.

A major crime every 22 seconds costs American an estimated total of $15,000,000,000 a year. What ought to be done about that was discussed by 800 criminologists and penologists at the annual congress of the American Prison Association in New York this week. One suggestion: more money for competent correctional personnel.

LEGION AUXILIARY PLANS INSTALLATION

Event Set for Monday Night; Conventions of Two Large Organizations Draw Delegates From Mansfield; Clubs Active.

By FRANCES E. GENSLEY

IN A PERIOD as filled with international strife as the present era the activities of the American Legion auxiliary give us considerable reason for thoughtfulness. The auxiliary, which is the sister organization to the Legion itself, has contributed immeasurably to improvement of conditions, the local order oustanding in that respect.

During the past years the outstanding contributions made by the Mansfield women have been general welfare among widows and children of veterans of the Great War, and a never-ending campaign for Americanism. Just recently 61 aliens, who had become naturalized, were entertained by the auxiliary. This party for new citizens is an annual event.

In connection with this work the auxiliary presents flags to schools and classes, copies of the constitution and other patriotic literature, and gives talks promoting an Americanism consciousness.

To us it seems fitting to write about this large organization at this time, for Monday night the solemn ritual of installation will be conducted at the Home following a dinner at 6:30 p. m. New officers will take their chairs at that time.

Cosmopolitan Tea, Journey Meet Events.

For the opening session of the Journey club on Wednesday the Women's Club will be used. The program includes a paper by Mrs. W. J. Spreng entitled "The Work of the Federal Bureau of Investigation," and Mrs. Neil Remy and Mrs. Anna Miller will give the current events.

Next week doesn't offer a lot that is unusual or of wide general interest to readers of the society and club department of The News-Journal, but a number of women will be interested in the Cosmopolitan club tea which will be an event of Friday. Mrs. J. E. Lautsbaugh will entertain with Mrs. J. F. Daley and Mrs. C. A. McClure assisting. A book review will be given by Mrs. G. E. Holland.

Two Organizations Will Convene.

Two national organizations will be having conventions next week, the W. C. T. U. will hold a state meeting in Cleveland, and the Order of Eastern Star will have the Grand Chapter Session of Ohio in Toledo.

Mrs. F. O. Haldeman will represent the Frances Willard chapter of this city at Cleveland Oct. 25 to 27, and Mrs. Miriam Gross, worthy adviser of the Ruth chapter of Mansfield, will be in Toledo from Oct. 24 to 26. It is particularly fitting that this W. C. T. U. convention should be held in Cleveland, for it was on Nov. 17, 1874—nearly 55 years ago—that the first national convention of temperance women was held there.

At that time 16 states were represented, and since then there has been an annual national convention each year. In 1916 there were state and territorial organizations in every state and territory in the union. The Union carries on legislative, social, educational and preventive work both nationally and locally.

The W. C. T. U. has been responsible for the introduction of teaching of physiology and health in the schools, has campaigned equal rights for women, and has encouraged high moral standards for both men and women.

The Order of Eastern Star, as is well known, is a women's fraternal organization founded in 1776 (yes, that's right. I didn't hit the wrong key.) It is affiliated with the Masonic order and its membership numbers more than 700,000. It is a secret, ritualistic organization for women relatives of Master Masons.

Looking Back Over Last Week's Talks.

If it is forgivable to digress for a moment I should like to briefly mention two events of last week which were outstanding. One, of course, was the talk by Strickland Gillilan at the Ohio theater for the Mansfield Federation of Women. You either heard him, or heard from your friends of his clever speech. He is delightful, and an outstanding humorist, so if you have a chance don't miss hearing him.

The other event I wished to speak of was the book review by Mrs. W. E. Benninghoff given at the First Congregational church under the auspices of the Women's Association. She is a charming and entertaining lecturer, and you'll have a chance to hear her soon if you missed the first program, because she'll be speaking again Nov. 28.

Mansfield people are fortunate to have opportunities to hear lecturers of the high calibre of both Mr. Gillilan and Mrs. Benninghoff.

Naturally there are many other entertaining and instructive events being planned for the coming seven days. Watch your Schedule of Events, and the Society columns for information about what your favorite organization has planned.

So it's off to a convention we go. Yes, your society editor will be week-ending in Dayton at the Ohio Newspaper Women's association convention. So long. I'll see you Monday.

Federation Sets Date For Second Lecture-Luncheon

Avis Clamitz Shulman, writer and lecturer, will be the second speaker for the Fall and Winter series of programs to be given before the Mansfield Federation of Women. The lecture, which is for members or their out-of-town guests only, will be presented Nov. 9 at 11 a. m. at the Madison theater.

Miss Shulman is to speak on "Books and the World Outlook" preceding the luncheon which will be served at 1 o'clock at the Women's Club. Reservations will be accepted until 6 p. m. Nov. 8 at the Club.

The lecturer was born in the Middle West and educated at the University of Cincinnati, the University of Chicago, Northwestern university, and the Hebrew Union college in Cincinnati. She has lectured all over the United States, and has a reputation as a literary critic. Her travels in Europe and the Near East make her cognizant of the world picture of which she speaks.

Quiet Service Read Today For Miss Kochenderfer, Mr. Ford

IN A quiet ceremony at 11:30 o'clock this morning, Miss Lura Jeanette Kochenderfer became the bride of Davis W. Ford at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd L. Kochenderfer, 17 Highland avenue. Mr. Ford is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Ford, 218 South Diamond street.

Rev. E. G. Corwin, pastor of the First Methodist church, performed the single ring service before an improvised altar of palms, ferns and yellow chrysanthemums. Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. George Hall played nuptial music on the piano. Her selections included: "The Pines" by Matthews, "I Love Thee" by Grieg, "Still as the Night" by Bohm, Liszt's "Liebestraum," "Love Song," by Stojowski, "An Old Trysting Place," by MacDowell, Bond's "I Love You Truly," Friml's "Indian Love Call" and "Nocturne" by Chopin.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attired in a Hunter's green costume suit for her wedding. The fingertip jacket of the ensemble was trimmed with light lynx, and with it the former Miss Kochenderfer wore matching accessories and a Cattleys orchid shoulder corsage. A feature of the bridal costume was a pin and two bracelets worn by the bridegroom's great-grandmother on her wedding day.

Mrs. Kochenderfer wore a dress of Viking blue crepe with black accessories for her daughter's wedding. Her corsage was of Talisman roses. Mrs. Ford's gown was black and so were her accessories. Gardenias formed her shoulder corsage.

Only members of the immediate families of the couple were present for the wedding and breakfast which followed. Places were laid for 25 at the long breakfast table, and it was decorated with yellow and white appointments and yellow roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Ford are taking an Eastern motor trip and will return to Mansfield to make their home. Mrs. Ford, a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school, attended Marietta college, where she was a member of Beta Theta sorority. She has been employed at the Leppo shop. Mr. Ford, who is also a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school, is an employe of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company.

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, October 22.

Sunday's horoscope is a happy one for affairs of church and clergy. There is definite promise of promotion, perferment, honors and esteem at the hands of employers, superiors and those in high places. Nevertheless, this preferment may entail sudden change, not entirely welcome or gratifying.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves in a year in which there are complications and contradictions. There are definite promises of promotion, favors and substantial tokens of preferment from superiors and those in authority. However, there also are signs of sudden upheavel and disturbance, which may not contribute to happiness or physical well-being. Choose with care.

A child born on this day may be steady, persistent and steadfast, gaining recognition and reward from its superiors.

For Monday, October 23.

Monday's astrological forecast is for a day in which affairs move in accustomed grooves with a fair degree of progress and satisfaction. However, this routine may not be sanctioned by a mind that is keen, alert and zealous in its creative urges, one that is warmly desirous of putting over greater programs.

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy a moderately successful year in a routine channel, although its mental faculties may be whetted by keen ambitions to express highly-stimulated, creatives urges with verve and fine initiative. Splendid ideas and practical objectives may be incubating in the thought world.

A child born on this day, endowed with splendid mentality, may be original, practical and ambitious, inventive, enthusiastic and indomitable. It shold attain a good degree of success and happiness in life.

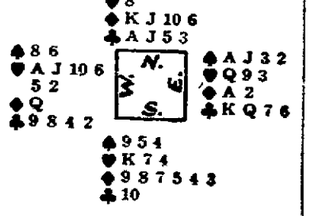
"The Authority on Authorities"

BIDE YOUR TIME

WEAK HANDS with a certain amount of suit length sometimes justify a bid at a high point, but would not furnish a sound basis for a lower one. This is the case when there is no game in prospect and your earlier call might mislead your partner into doubling the opponents, whereas a later one as a sacrifice gives him clear warning.



(Dealer, North. East-West vulnerable.)

After North opened this deal with 1-Spade, the opponents began to monopolize the auction. East bid 1-No Trump, West 2-Hearts, East 3-Clubs, West 3-Hearts and East 4-Hearts. It so happens that this can be made easily, indeed including an overtrick.

That is about the way it sounded to South, so he came to life at this late point with a sacrifice call of 5-Diamonds, being able to read from the bidding that his partner almost certainly had support in that suit. East doubled the contract and it was set only one trick, the opponents taking one in diamonds and two in spades, a very worthwhile saving.

Monday's Problem.

Why is 1-Heart a vastly better opening bid for South on this deal than 1-Diamond?

COUNCIL, CHILD STUDY CLUB PROGRAMS OUT

Talks of Interest to Parents Arranged By Both Units; Second Organization Plans Variety of Parties.

ALTHOUGH both the Mansfield Council of Parent-Teacher associations, and the Child Study club started their seasons' programs several weeks ago, their booklets have just been received by this department. So we will take this opportunity to tell you what some of their plans include. Next Wednesday Mrs. F. David Boals will lead the program on "Good Citizenship," and a roundtable will be held on "Membership Problems" with Mrs. G. C. Young in charge. The meeting will be held at the Chamber of Commerce club rooms. Mrs. Boals is unit adviser, and Mrs. Young is music chairman.

In November Frend Boals, safety chairman, will conduct the program at Bowman school, and Mrs. Howard Fox, hospitality chairman, will be in charge of the social hour. The Misses Florence Robinson and Helen Hartmann will give the January program on art and music in our schools.

One of the most helpful program booklets of the season is that of the Child Study club. It contains all the information that is helpful to a busy society editor on a busier morning. A red covered book lettered in black on white paper, it made its appearance this week.

Next Saturday the enterprising mothers belonging to this club will entertain their youngsters with a Halloween party. Mrs. Gordon Colby, Mrs. Coleman Todd, Mrs. Robert Nichols, and Mrs. Emmett Casey are the hostesses. On the last day of the month they will hold a regular meeting with Mrs. R. D. Evans, this year's president.

Miss Hartman to Speak.

Miss Katharine Hartman is scheduled to be guest speaker at the Nov. 28 meeting, and in December another children's party will be held. Then Mrs. James Brown, Mrs. Frank Harpster, Mrs. J. B. Simons, Mrs. F. W. Forkner and Mrs. Dean Fighter will entertain. At the end of January Mrs. Colby will be hostess for the regular session, and another party is set for February. Mrs. Jack Robbins, Mrs. Clarence Beddard, Mrs. James Crum and Mrs. Ted S. Banks will be hostesses.

There will be a father's night program in March with Mrs. William Riester, Mrs. Ivor Balyeat, Mrs. Robert McCaffrey, Mrs. Lowell Bourns, Mrs. Robert Richards, Mrs. Elmer Hadeen and Mrs. Coleman Todd are in charge. Regular meetings will be held during the spring, and in May officers will be elected. The installation will follow in late June, and a July picnic will wind-up the season.

Assisting Mrs. Evans this season are Mrs. Bourns, vice-president; Mrs. McCaffrey, secretary, and Mrs. Riester, treasurer. The directors are Mrs. Colby, Mrs. Elmer Hedeen and Mrs. Casey, while the program was arranged by the vice-president assisted by Mrs. Forkner, Mrs. Colby and Mrs. Todd.

Mrs. George Price Named President Of Garden Club

Mrs. George Price was elected president of the Town and Country Garden club, succeeding Mrs. C. H. Bell, when that group met for a one o'clock luncheon and business session at the home of Mrs. Walter Willis, Highland avenue, Friday.

Other officers named to serve with Mrs. Price were Mrs. H. L. Longsdorf, vice-president; Mrs. R. Emerson, re-elected recording secretary, Mrs. Stuart Cramer, re-elected corresponding secretary, and Mrs. K. L. Woodman, also re-elected to the office of treasurer. New directors of the club named Friday were Mrs. Bell, Mrs. D. Dalton Deeds, and Mrs. Clay Noel.

During the program which followed the luncheon Mrs. Woodman read an informative paper on "Chrysanthemums," after which Mrs. Willis invited the members to inspect her garden of chrysanthemums. Another meeting, Nov. 3, will be with Mrs. E. K. Clark, 856 Park avenue west.

GROUP PLAYS BUNCO.

Members of the Gardenia club played bunco when they met at the home of Julia Grandstaff, 396 Wood street, Friday. Prizes were won by Mrs. Alice Maxwell and Mrs. Mabel Schuck. LEGACY OF LOVE + + + + + +

By KATHRN BEMIS

SYNOPSIS

Rita Rhodes, heiress to a large fortune when she is 25 or sooner if she marries, is mystified when Preston Meeker suggests they made a mistake in their engagement. She breaks it, of course, as they sit in masquerade costumes in a lantern-lighted Pasadena garden but wonders what is the matter with her that men treat her so heartlessly. She is pretty, she knows, but Preston is the third fiance to break the bonds. She wishes her perennially young mother Delores were with her instead of in Paris as she detests Wilmont Green, Delores' fourth husband, and hates to face him with the news. Also to face the comment of newspaper columnists who have described her as a flirtatious glamour girl. When Preston leaves her under the lanterns, the bushes behind her part and a man in a grotesque clown's costume appears saying, "It's a darn shame! A low-down fortune hunter like Meeker hot-footing it away from a girl of your type. I'm at your service and you're going to see a lot of me." He disappears as others approach. Despite her resentment at his snooping, Rita thrills to an exciting warmth. Green, fifteen years Delores' junior, is gruff, saying Rita herself must cable her mother just as Delores cables him she is divorcing him. He leaves at once for Paris. Rita recognizes the voice of Stanton, her new chauffeur, engaged by Green, as that of the clown. She allows him to take her for a drive, her determination to discharge him changed by his attraction for her.

CHAPTER V

Rita thrashed around in her bed, her thoughts a torment. How she hated her glamour girl fame! Rita Rhodes, the alluringly beautiful, stunningly gowned young heiress of the Rhodes fortune! Rita Rhodes, summering on the Riviera, in the Alph, the Canadian Rockies, Newport; wintering in Miami, Palm Springs, Sun Valley. Cruising in the Mediterranean, flying to New York or Chicago to attend brilliant parties given by other famous debutantes. Dances, teas, night clubs, theater first nights, now and then a cinema premiere. Gay weekends in hotel-sized country places, yachting parties. Rita Rhodes who had everything — everything but the sincere love of one honest man.

She closed her eyes on a little sigh of resignation. She dozed off in a bitter-sweet mood, wondering what was to become of her.

In the morning, Jilly Stern called again, reminding Rita that she was on the Junior League committee for the fall bazaar, and that the committee was meeting today for luncheon at Wilma Willet's Santa Monica beach home. So after telling Hobbs to have Stanton drive the servants to Seebreeze in the station wagon, and saying she would arrive there around dinnertime, she ordered her coupe brought around.

She was fully prepared this lovely golden morning to put the aggressive Stanton where he belonged and keep him there. If Abner were still chauffeur here, she would seriously consider having him drive her to Santa Monica, because it grew dark early this time of year. She could not possibly get away from the committee meeting until four-thirty, and long before she would reach Seebreeze she would be traveling in darkness and heavy home-going traffic along the seacoast highway.

But her mind was made up. She positively would not take Stanton this morning. She would show him how unsuccessfully his high-handed tactics had been, also gain time to face facts with herself. She should have done this more carefully last night.

Nevertheless, her heart pounded unaccountably as she hurried expectantly out the door, her tailored navy slacks flopping wildly about her slim ankles, the matching navy shirt outlining her firm young breasts, her small waist. The bright blue kerchief wound around her yellow hair made her eyes shine with new depth, the delicate flush on her cheeks complementing the exquisite loveliness and grace of her.

On the porch she paused in astonishment. She was even inclined to be angry. The coupe stood on the drive with no Stanton to perform the customary ritual of opening the car door, that touch of deference the house of Green demanded from its chauffeurs.

Hobbs came up behind her then, coughed apologetically.

Rita wheeled, white-faced.

"Stanton said to tell you, Miss Rita, that he's taking the day off."

Rita stared at Hobbs incredulously. "The very idea!" she exclaimed impatiently. "This is a busy day — there are a dozen things he could have done!"

She suddenly checked herself. She went down the steps, said over her shoulder, "You'll have to drive the station wagon to Seebreeze, Hobbs."

"Very good, miss," said Hobbs, sounding pleased.

Rita flung herself behind the wheel of her car, started the motor. She heard a peculiar sound, similar to stifled laughter.

She peered out the window, listened intently. Was some one hiding behind that clump of shrubbery? But she could make out nothing unusual.

She drove away filled with a little chill of apprehension and chagrin, which mingled unpleasantly with conjecture. She could have sworn she had heard Stanton laugh.

The Junior League committee members lunched in the many windowed dining-room of the Willet's summer home overlooking the Pacific ocean, their gay chatter in rhythm with the waves dashing against dazzling white sand, their appetites whetted by salt air—a menace to all diet lists.

Rita casually mentioned her latest broken matrimonial plans, gracefully endured the ohs and ahs, the wide-eyed speculation of her friends and took the raillery about her various smashed romances with the sang-froid of a veteran. But inwardly she was as remote from all this as are the jungles of Africa from the streets of New York. In her mental vision there was the sandy hair, the ruddy skin of a good-looking face, its sandy eyebrows well-placed, well-arched. Struggle as she would, she couldn't dislike this image of what she had seen last night in a pair of horn rimmed spectacles.

Soon, as strolled Hank Blackman, Bob Dillon and Donald Avery commanding and plotting cocktails and introducing Count Waddington, a handsome man whose heroics were raising at Bing Crosby's Del Mar track. But Rita's mind was awhirl in too many dreams to be especially aware of this male quartet.

In the late afternoon when the party had become lively enough to make any one's absence inconspicuous she slipped outside to her car. She was just congratulating herself upon having made a clean exit when Bob Dilling said, "Hi, darling! Where do you think you're going? I'll drive."

With a sign of resignation, Rita slid along in the seat and let him take the wheel.

Bob's appearance would have been more welcome if he had had fewer cocktails. Even so, Rita was inclined to discount this. It seemed far better to endure Bob's society, now that the countryside was shrouded in darkness, than to be driving alone.

He quickly swung the car around, broke recklessly into one of the six lanes of heavy traffic now moving speedily along the highway out front.

Finally at a red light he flung Rita a sidelong glance and said, "Too bad about you and Pres. But now you're free, white, and twenty-one. . . ."

"Twenty-two," she corrected.

"Have it your own way—twenty-two it is. Let's celebrate—make a night of it. Suppose we ride around for a while—have dinner and then go on to. . . ."

"Sorry, Bob—not tonight. But if you'll take me out to Seebreeze, I'll have you driven back to town. I hate battling traffic alone after dark."

"But I'm not in the mood to lose you, darling. Why not make the most of this freedom of yours—or do you feel pretty low? I never figured you fell too hard for old Pres. But you're a difficult woman, Rita. You've let down three swell fellows. Like variety, don't you?"

She could feel her cheeks burn. She broke out indignantly, "You men are all alike, aren't you? Egotistical no end! As for tying permanently to any one of you, I'd rather. . . ."

Her words became lost in the shrill screeching of a police siren behind them. After it had passed, Bob was too busy keeping the car within the white lines to follow up any illogical outburst of a mere woman.

Rita, warmly wrapped in a heavy woolen coat, sat staring vacantly out the window. Why did every one persist in misunderstanding her?

She might ordinarily have accepted Bob's invitation with alacrity, thinking an evening of gaiety would camouflage her humiliation and perplexity, but now she only wanted to reach Seebreeze. She would see Stanton, discharge him. Not only was he a bad example for the other servants, but he upset her terribly.

Bob suddenly sent the car up a drive beside a vacant house, pulled the brake.

"What's — what's the matter?" asked Rita, shocked out of her silence. "Why did you come in here?"

"I could use the old one about being out of gas, darling—but I won't."

His arm went across the back of the seat, fell to her shoulder. She drew away from him, sat up straight.

"No, I wouldn't use that old gag if I were you," she got out with cutting emphasis. "Back out, please—I'm expected at Seebreeze for dinner."

"Don't tell me your experience with love has made you cynical." His grasp tightened on her shoulder as he drew her abruptly toward him.

Her right hand swung wide and landed loudly on his face.

His answering laugh held a note of admiration. Now, he was thoroughly interested. His strength far exceeded hers, and he stifled her sharp outcry with lips tightly pressed to hers.

"I'll attend to him, Miss Rhodes," suddenly broke in a familiar voice beside the open window by the driver's seat.

Bob Dilling immediately released his hold on Rita.

She cried, "Stanton! How in the world. . . ."

"Who in hell are you?" blazed Bob. It was too dark for him to distinguish Stanton's uniform.

"Get out and I'll show you," suggested Stanton calmly.

"Please—please don't let's have any trouble!" begged frightened Rita, clutching Bob's sleeve.

But Bob pulled away angrily, leaped from the car, determined to show this fresh upstart a few tricks.

His fist shot out fiercely, went wild. But Stanton's stinging blow told. Bob Dilling sprawled full length on the soft grass carpet, all power to retaliate gone.

It had all happened so swiftly that Rita was stunned speechless.

Stanton calmly took off his cap, pushed back the hair that had fallen over his forehead, replaced the cap. But he did not take his gaze from his victim, now coming to sitting posture, and rubbing his chin where the blow had struck.

Then Stanton said, "You can get a bus at the next corner, Mr. Dilling. I'm taking Miss Rhodes home."

THEATERS

"The Real Glory."

When Gen. Sherman said that war was—well, you know what he said, he probably wasn't thinking of the movies, but any movie producer will agree with him. Because the cost of reproducing war is just what Mr. Sherman said it was. In "The Real Glory," Sam Goldwyn spent $260,000 on battle scenes alone, which probably is more than the real fracas cost in the Philippines in '98. The battle to make a nation of the Philippines, however, came after the war when they fought against savagery and superstition. Gary Cooper, as an American army doctor, heads the cast, with David Niven, Andrea Leeds, Reginald Owen and Broderick Crawford in his support. The picture opened today at the Madison and runs through Wednesday.

"Babes In Arms."

The New York musical hit provides a co-starring vehicle for Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland, two of the screen's best box office attractions. Little Miss Garland gained popular acclaim for her work in "Wizard of Oz" and Mickey is known to millions of movie goers as Andy Hardy because of his work in the Judge Hardy series. Their talents are combined in "Babes In Arms," with Mickey going on to further success as a show "perducer" and Judy singing a number of new songs. The children of down and out vaudeville parents, they find a new way to sell entertainment. The Ohio offers the picture today and the first half of the week.

"Tarzan Finds A Son."

John Sheffield, the youngster who plays the son of Tarzan in the film of that name is a whiz at swimming and acrobatics. In fact he was chosen for the role because of his prowess in the water. In this new Tarzan picture, which will be the Ritz attraction for Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, Tarzan and his mate find a foster-son, a baby whose parents, flying over the jungle, are killed in a plane crash. The baby is found by Cheeta, the almost human chimpanzee, and as it grows into boyhood, Tarzan teaches it the ways of the jungle. Johnny Weissmuller and Maureen O'Sullivan are Tarzan and his mate.

"Career."

This picture, one of the Park theaters for the first of the week, is interesting for two reasons: it introduces two of the winners in Jesse Lasky's "Gateway To Hollywood" talent search, and it is the film version of Phil Stong's stirring story of a small Iowa town, in which gossip and prejudice lead to near tragedy. The banker and the small storekeeper battling each other find the ghost of an old romance increasing the bitterness between them. Alice Eden and John Archer are the talent contest winners who make their first appearance in the picture. Heading the cast are Anne Shirley, Edward Ellis, Samuel Hinds, Jane Bryan, Lucile Browne and Lynn Bari. The second picture is "Dead End" with Sylvia Sidney and Joel McCrea.

"Submarine D-1."

While "Topper Takes A Trip" heads the bill at the Majestic, the second feature, which is a revelation, will undoubtedly hold the most interest, because of its timeliness. It is "Submarine D-1," one of the best submarine stories ever filmed and of vital interest right now because it deals with under-water war, and what happens to a crew when the ship is trapped beneath the water. Pat O'Brien, George Brent, Wayne Morris, Frank McHugh and Doris Weston are the important players. In the first film Constance Bennett and Roland Young head the cast with Billie Burke as Topper's wife.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

Lillian's answer to my stipulation concerning our telephone arrangements was quick and explosive.

"What do you mean?" she asked. "Are they daring to censor—?"

"No, no," I answered, emphatically. "This is my own choice. I have already arranged it with the manager."

She gave a short, little laugh.

"Okay, Mrs. Mor-ris." She drawled the name I had given her. "I'll remember to ask for that name if I call you. Had any luck?"

"Nothing of any account so far. But if I get anything or you do, use daffodil yellow."

"I get you. We have nothing so far, either. Good-bye."

I turned to the hotel manager and the guard who had remained standing while I telephoned.

"That is arranged," I said. "My friends, the Underwoods, will ask for me as Mrs. Morris."

"As I understand it, then," Mr. Milner said, "the Underwoods, who will ask for you as Mrs. Morris, Mr. Veritzen and your family long distance — and, of course, your husband—are the only ones who are to be told you are in the hotel tonight."

"Your understanding is correct," I said. "Thank you so much."

"Then," Mr. Milner said, most politely, but with an indefinable air of wishing to be elsewhere, "is there anything else you wish of me?"

"No, indeed," I said, "except your assurance that Mr. Thompson, here, be permitted to have access to this floor whenever he wishes."

The manager bowed.

"That is already arranged, and if there is nothing more, I will wish you good night."

"Good night," I returned perfunctorily. The guard turned to follow Mr. Milner, but I stopped him.

"If you don't mind, Mr. Thompson," I said quickly, "I'd like to speak to you for a minute."

Mr. Milner had half-turned at my voice, and I saw his eyebrows lift slightly. Then, as the guard turned back to me, he went out of the door, closing it behind him.

"You ought to know," I said, "that there will be very plausible attempts made tonight to see my husband and myself. But we wish to see no one. I don't think I need to say anything more."

"I'll be either in the lobby or on this floor all night. If you don't see me in the hall outside, call downstairs, and I'll be up here in a jiffy."

"Thank you," I said. "I knew that."

"There's nothing else you want?" he asked.

"Nothing."

"Then, good night. I'll get back downstairs."

I wondered if the conspirators had been wrong when they had decided that Dicky was not at the magazine. With a sudden impulse, reckless of consequences, I called the number, planning to disguise my voice so that no one would know that I was the one calling.

There was no answer at first. I really had expected none, for it was long past the hour when even the most industrious of magazine workers would be expected to be at their desks. But in the vain hope that Dicky might be there, and that persistent ringing would get him, I asked the operator to keep on trying the number. And then, when I had almost given up hope, I heard it, a feminine voice, tremulous, obviously frightened, patently disguised, whispering:

"What is it? Who is calling?"

time. His boats were over the side in a twinkling, aiding the boats of the city of Mandalay and the Yorkshire in transporting the survivors to the Independence Hall. While this was going on the submarine broke surface, and ran up close to the American freighter, on whose sides were painted great American flags.

An officer, apparently the commander, was on the conning tower bridge. He called up to Captain MacKenzie on the Independence Hall's bridge.

"Thank you," he said in good English. The conning tower was closed, the submarine dived and that was the last seen of it.

The Independence Hall had sailed from Bordeau on Saturday with 75 passengers and her normal crew augmented by 50 to care for them. Thus, counting those she had picked up and her own complement she had 409 persons aboard a 5,050 ton freighter built with accommodations for only six passengers.

Among the survivors, were a number who had been hurt, more or less seriously. In addition, there were two orphans—Hazel Armstrong, 6, and her brother, Kenneth, 7, of Wickham, England, whose father and mother had gone down in the Yorkshire. There was a four months old baby, Margaret Cole, whose mother had been lost. There was Mrs. J. A. Harris of Plymouth, England, who had lost her four children. Also there was Mrs. Henry Clements whose husband had been so gravely injured that he was dying.

Clements grew weaker and died at last. His body was wrapped in canvas. Captain MacKenzie, functioning now as a spiritual consoler, read the burial service, and the body was dumped into the sea. Later another of the survivors died and MacKenzie got out his prayer book again.

proposed restrictions on American vessels trading with belligerent possessions. Framers of the measure already have agreed to modify the restrictions they wrote originally.

Lodge said the proposed modifications "discriminated" against New England ports, by prohibiting American vessels from carrying cargoes or passengers to Bay of Fundy ports in New Brunswick and western Nova Scotia while permitting such traffic with British and French possessions in the Caribbean.

He argued most shipping to eastern Canadian ports was in the Bay of Fundy region, "remote from trans-Atlantic shipping lanes where submarines may be lurking."

ASHLAND GRAND JURORS RESUME PROBE MONDAY

Continue Investigation of Perjury, Alleged Collusion Among Notary Publics.

ASHLAND — The special session of the Ashland county grand jury which a week ago Friday met and heard the charge of Judge H. E. Culbertson that "perjury in this county is so prevalent, it is tending to disrupt this court," is scheduled to resume sessions Monday.

The jury was recessed after having been in session two days, and it was stated by Prosecuting Attorney A. Ross Siverling that the disclosure of certain "unexpected" testimony on the part of the witnesses, would entail additional investigation.

Judge Culbertson had charged the jury that in the county there existed a "collusion among notary publics" which had made it possible for some by means of forgery to cause the loss of thousands of dollars.

She is survived by her husband and a brother, Oscar Mowrer of Dayton.

Declare Turks Drawn Closer To War by Mutual Air Pact With Allies.

Ankara treaty, pledges of solidarity from Sweden, Norway and Denmark and the interest of President Roosevelt in the Baltic situation.

Hostilities on the western front were at a standstill because of heavy rains. In Paris miliary experts asserted that the French early this week had withdrawn voluntarily from lines on German soil because they knew it would not be possible to stage a major offensive at this time of year. The French contended that their present lines, on or close to their own frontier, are stronger than the lines from which they withdrew.

The French war office communique described a quiet night on the western front with artillery fire and patrol activity in the sector between the Moselle and Saar rivers.

The French cabinet met for two hours and discussed the economic and military situations but decisions were reserved for a later meeting.

The army high command in Berlin announced further French withdrawals from German soil, especially from portions of the Warndt forest. The German command noted increased artillery and patrol activity between the Moselle river and Saarbruecken.

In London the British continued preparations for a war to the finish. Routine regulations brought an additional 250,000 youthful conscripts to the colors. After six months of training they will be considered ready for overseas service.

Military Leaders of Allies, Turkey Meet.

ANKARA, Turkey—(AP)—Military leaders of Britain, France and Turkey completed extensive plans today for military cooperation under the new tripartite mutual assistance treaty.

The plans, however, will become effective only in the event that the nations are called upon to fulfill their pledges of mutual aid by future developments.

(These pledges do not obligate Turkey to enter the current war between Britain and France and Germany, on its present basis, or to fight under any circumstances against Soviet Russia.)

The conferences, which began Wednesday, concluded as Gen. Maxime Weygand, commander-in-chief of French forces in the eastern Mediterranean, and Lieut. Gen. Archibald P. Wavell, British middle east commander, prepared to return to respective headquarters by plane.

Marshal Fevsi Cakmack, chief of the Turkish army, described the results as "highly satisfactory."

The military leaders were said to have decided on the closest cooperation and coordination of their staffs in Asia Minor. Britain and France were reported to have pledged large quantities of fighting planes and war equipment for quick delivery to Turkey, as well as assistance for the Turkish navy in the Black sea.

Held as evidence after the raids were several bottles of whisky, several cases of beer and a quantity of empty containers and glasses.

The two agents were assisted in the raids by Police Chief Meade K. Bates who led the entire night shift of eight officers and Deputy Sheriff C. C. Gongwer.

A Farmer's Diary

The "First Temples."

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I WALKED through a woodland of cut over timber. The old, useless trunks and branches bore mute evidence of ruthless foresting. Many were fallen across the tops of smaller, thrifty trees, and had crushed them to the ground. Often I saw three such younger trees lying prone beneath the older top, splintered and uprooted.

The large pile of colored sawdust, layered like a shifting dune of sand, tells how great a number of living trees have fallen. But this does not even hint at the useless slaughter of younger generations that in time to come might well have reforested the wasted land.

The hot summer sun boils down and dries up the moistened soil that feeds the roots of delicate woodland flowers—the violet, the windflower, the precious trillium. Even the jack-in-the-pulpit and the sweet, fragrant wood strawberry are gone from their favorite haunts. A few straggly, bent, almost leafless trees remain upon a gentle slope where a strange, harsh, withered form of grass persists. It seems the very soul is torn from this forest, and nothing is left to take its place.

Dead hollow snags, like ghastly skeletons, stand sentinel among the ruins man has made. Upon the bare branches buzzards perch, consumers of the carrion of the land. Soon the farmer's herd of hungry cattle will be turned in to eat the tender shoots which wise Nature meant to heal the ugly wounds, and make it beautiful again. If farmers are compensated for saving their soil, how much more in keeping would it be to conserve the useful woodland, with its vast harvest of beauty for all who pass that way.

This woodland was a labyrinth of stately halls, a tall and silent grove, where one, on entering, might slough his cares and kneel to worship. It was near our home, and often I have forsaken the easier path and the shorter way to complete my journey through this precious woodland. Here was companionship that touched one's very soul, a nearness to that strange elusive Power that filled me with delight and fear. Not only on the mountain top and in the flaming bush, but here in the cool moist fragrance of the level woodland floor have I felt a Holy Presence among springtime flowers or in the spreading canopy of moving leaves above me.

Sensational passing and punting by both aggregations in the first quarter paved the way for possible scores by both teams, but penalties prevented the teams from crossing the final stripe.

Ashland reached the Orangemen's 15-yard marker for its deepest penetration, while Galion was unable to march past the A's 27.

Both combines took to the air in the second frame, but inability of the hurlers to find receivers put an end to any trouble they might have developed. The A's only serious threat in this period came in the closing minutes when air and power plays placed the ball on the Galion seven, where a stubborn Orange line held for downs.

Galion gridsters reached the Ashland 34, but met the same stiff resistance as it was forced to relinquish the ball at this point.

* * *

A Galion fumble in the opening minutes of the third stanza put the A's in scoring position but an intercepted pass halted Ashland inclinations. Galion's offensive weakened slightly in the closing seconds of the frame when a blocked Galion punt was recovered by Ashland. Penalties and a completed triple lateral placed the ball on the Galion four yard line, with one yard needed for a first down, the A's were forced to yield the ball on downs.

* * *

The final period furnished the fans with much excitement as the Galion gridsters took a monopoly on the pigskin and marched to the two yard marker in Ashland territory. A five yard penalty placed the ball on the A's seven and with three unsuccessful attempts at a much needed score the Orangemen elected a place-kick to give them a three point advantage, but the timekeeper's gun stopped the attempt.

Crestline Adds To Win Streak

Frye, Ganni Lead Onondagas to 36 to 8 Victory Over Willard for Sixth Straight Triumph.

WILLARD—Robert Frye and Phil Ganni, the now famous "touchdown twins," scored all the points as the undefeated Crestline grid machine registered its sixth consecutive victory by downing Willard, 36 to 8, under the floodlights here last night.

Coach Merle Hutson's powerful aggregation jumped into the lead in the initial frame when Frye, one of the district's leading individual scorers, galloped 52 yards around left end into pay dirt.

And from there on in it was a question of how many times the two backfield stars would cross into Willard's end zone.

Ganni, Crestline's great broken-field runner, took command of the situation for a while after Frye scored and he personally escorted the pigskin across the goal line twice before Frye again broke into the scoring column.

Ganni intercepted a Willard pass and raced 75 yards for the second touchdown and then a little later he scooted around left end for 50 yards and Crestline's third tally.

A Ganni-to-Frye aerial that was good for 20 yards and another marker gave the Onondagas a 24 to 8 advantage in the fourth period. Another pass interception by Ganni, who ran 70 yards into the end zone gave Crestline its fifth touchdown.

Frye, whom Coach Hutson thought would be on the sidelines with an injury suffered in last week's Tiffin Calvert setto, climaxed the scoring by ploughing 10 yards through center into the Willard touchdown territory.

Jenney, Willard halfback, who scored all of his team's points in the third period, was the only one to cause the invaders any trouble. Incidentally, his eight points scored on a touchdown and a safety, are the only points tallied by Willard this season. He went 12 yards in the third period for the touchdown and added the safety by tackling Ganni behind the Crestline goal line.

Crestline held the edge in first downs, 10 to 5, and outside of the time Willard scored had the situation well in hand. Frye's three touchdowns gave him a total of 77 points scored this year and he shares scoring honors in the district with Bellville's Howard Hamilton.

Madison Roars To Third Win

Rams Stage Rally In Final Half to Outpoint Norwalk St. Paul's, 27 to 13, Under Arcs.

By CHARLES MARTIN

THEIR touchdown machine manufacturing points with machine-like precision after the intermission, the Rams of Madison high scribbled Victory No. 3 into the record book last night by blasting a fighting Norwalk St. Paul's combine, 27 to 13, before some 1,000 thrilled spectators under the arcs at Madison field.

Trailing by a 13 to 7 margin at half time, Coach Al Fendrick's green and white clad youngsters came charging back to smash over 20 points and turn the tide of battle in their favor. It was the third win in six starts.

Starting the team which will probably carry the Madison grid hopes in 1940, Mentor Fendrick saw Norwalk pile up a 13-0 lead before his inexperienced club could be replaced by the varsity.

It might have been an easier victory for the Rams had the touchdown the 1940 team scored in the early minutes of the initial quarter not been nullified by an off-side penalty.

Harold Hammer, a freshman who is developing as a nifty ball packer, scored that marker from the Norwalk 21, but the penalty seemed to dampen the club's spirits.

Doug DeNero, who accounted for two of the Rams' touchdowns, knotted the score at 13-all in the third period when he snagged a pass from Bill Heichel and ran unmolested over from the rivals' 25. A Heichel-to-Barber pass was good for the point and Madison went into a lead it never relinquished.

After holding Norwalk for downs on the three in the fourth, the smooth-working Ram outfit marched 95 yards for touchdown No. 3 DeNero ended the drive by dashing off tackle from St. Paul's 20 to tally standing up. Hammer went over right end for the point.

Walt Weimer ended the scoring in the final stanza by intercepting a desperate Norwalk forward on the Madison 35 and galloping over without a St. Paul hand being laid on him. His kick for the point was blocked.

Norwalk started the scoring in the first when Werner took Ringholz's 25-yard aerial on the Madison 20 and bounded over. Ringholz's drop-kick for the point was wide.

And while the Madison fans looked on in amazement, Norwalk, underdogs before game time, marched 59 yards for the second and what proved to be their final touchdown. Werner ended the goalward thrust by circling right end from the three. He also added the point on a plunge.

Madison was unable to threaten seriously until late in the second period. Driving from their own 11, the Rams rolled to the Norwalk four for a first down. Only seconds remaining in the half and Hammer went around right end into pay territory.

But "Winnie" Hirbe, the Norwalk timekeeper, ruled the period had ended before the ball was snapped. Fabian Folmer, the Rams' timer, however, claimed that two and a half seconds of playing time remained.

Instead of allowing the score, Referee Bill Keefe called the play back and allowed Madison to make another try. Hammer, behind a wall of interference, again skirted right end for the touchdown. DeNero contributed the point on a buck through center.

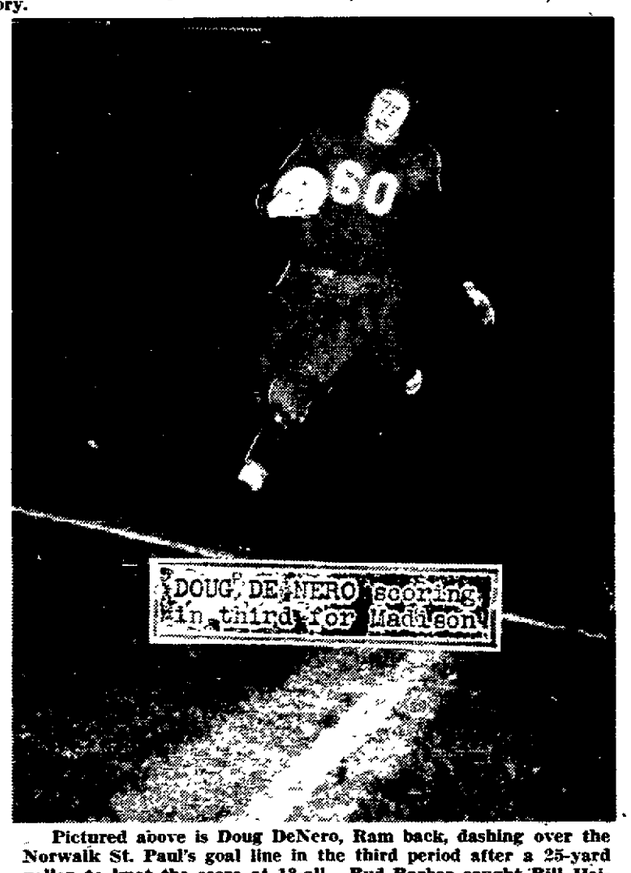
As soon as the play was over, Coach Fred George of Norwalk raced on the field protesting Keefe's decision. The St. Paul coach claimed that Hirbe had been the official timer for the second quarter.

His efforts proved futile and the touchdown was allowed, but George played the rest of the game under protest, and announced after the game he would protest to H. R. Townsend, state high school athletic commissioner.

The Rams registered 13 first downs to 11 for for St. Paul.



Pictured above is Doug DeNero, Ram back, dashing over the Norwalk St. Paul's goal line in the third period after a 25-yard gallop to knot the score at 13-all. Bud Barber caught Bill Heichel's pass a minute later for the point to give Madison a 14-13 lead. DeNero's run followed a 25-yard pass from Heichel in midfield.

GARNES' SCORE WINS

Hamilton Scores 27 Points as Bellville Keeps Record Intact

Bluejays Romp Over Sunbury By 39 to 0 Score to Register Sixth Victory In Row.

SUNBURY—Marching toward one of the greatest gridiron records ever made by their school, the undefeated Bluejays of Bellville high registered their sixth straight triumph by smothering Sunbury high, 39 to 0, here yesterday afternoon.

With Howard Hamilton, the team's leading individual scorer, contributing 27 points, the tricky Bellville team punched over touchdowns in every frame to chalk up its biggest score of the year.

Hamilton accounted for four touchdowns and three extra points to jump into a tie with Bob Frye of Crestline for individual scoring honors in this district. Both youths have scored 95 points.

* * *

Charles Kauf, Bellville's right guard, spotted his club to a 6-0 lead in the first period after taking a lateral from Hamilton on the Sunbury 30. He crossed the double stripe standing up. It was the first touchdown he has scored this season.

Hamilton began his scoring exhibition when he raced 16 yards on a reverse for the second touchdown near the end of the half.

A Keiser-to-Martin forward with Martin tossing a lateral to Hamilton was good for the first touchdown after the rest period. The play started in midfield.

Keiser ploughed over from the one to open the scoring spree in the final quarter. Hamilton added another from the two and ended his day's work by galloping 30 yards on a reverse.

* * *

Sunbury, on the defense most of the game, managed to threaten once in the third period. The threat was halted by the stout Bellville defense on the five-yard stripe.

Marion Retains Conference Lead

MARION—The Presidents of Marion Harding high retained their hold on first place in the North Central Ohio conference by drubbing Bucyrus, 30 to 0, here last night.

Ferguson crossed into pay dirt in the first five minutes of the game and then Marion piled up its commanding lead in the first three quarters. Marion held an 18 to 0 advantage at the half. It was Harding's fifth triumph of the year.

Whippets Surprise Jackets

Shelby Hangs Up Second N. C. O. Win as Yosick Runs 85 Yards For Touchdown.

MT. VERNON — Coach Bill Query's Shelby high Whippets marked up their second North Central Ohio Conference victory here last night by defeating Mt. Vernon, 13 to 7.

Although the Whippets collected only one first down, they struck late in the opening half to tally both touchdowns.

Bill Yosick gave the spectators a thrill when he intercepted a Mt. Vernon pass on the Shelby 15 and streaked down the sidelines to give the Whippets a 6-0 lead. Lehman's placement for the point was wide.

And with two minutes remaining in the half, Bob Laubie tossed a short pass over the line to Bob Lehman and he knifed through the Yellow Jackets' secondary for 50 yards and another score.

* * *

Mt. Vernon marked up seven first downs, but threatened only twice outside of the time it scored in the fourth period. Once the Jackets reached the Shelby 12 and later went to the 14.

A poor Shelby punt set the stage for the Mt. Vernon score in the fourth. Laubie booted the ball out of bounds on the Shelby 33 and Conklin heaved a 19-yard pass to Thompson who snagged the ball in the end zone. Prosser converted the point on a plunge.

Loudonville tallied in the opening period and then added two touchdowns in the third frame to win their first game in five starts. It was the sixth straight defeat for Coach Bob Burgett's Butler club.

Bob Miller collected two of the Red Birds' markers, scoring the first in the opening period by going around left end from the Butler 11. His other tally came in the third when he raced over left end from the eight.

* * *

Swank added the final Loudonville touchdown by taking a 30-yard pass from Etzwiler in the end zone. Miller added two extra points from placement.

AFTER a hard week on the practice field, Coach Earl McMullen's Automotive Supplies were pronounced ready for their next tussle on the semi-professional gridiron.

The undefeated Mansfield eleven will face the Lorain Pros at Blue Goose field at 2:30 p. m. Sunday, and there is a strong possibility that the Supplies will be extended.

Fresh from a 12 to 0 victory over the touted Euclid Spartans, the Supplies have been not pressed seriously this year, but the pressure may be on Sunday.

* * *

Lorain is said to possess a particularly strong passing attack, and it may cause the Supplies some trouble as they have not been called upon to face a spray of flying leather such as presented by the visitors.

However, the Supplies are well prepared for the expected air thrusts as Coach McMullen stressed pass defense in drills this week.

The Supplies seek their fifth straight victory in Sunday's game. In addition to Euclid, Mansfield has beaten the Akron O'Neils, Richwood Merchants and Canton Merchants this season.

Al Schwaner has been the leading backfield performer for the Supplies, but Joe Miller, Kenny Lockhart and Vern Heiser, not to mention a number of others, have also done brilliant work for the Mansfield club.

The Mansfield line has stood up well under the heavy bombardment, and McMullen credits this department for much of the success of the team.

One of the largest crowds of the season is expected for Sunday's game, Business Manager Fred Rizzo said.

West put the winners ahead by plunging over from the New London 10 in the third and Kechel made sure of the win by intercepting a desperate Wildcat pass in the fourth anud galloped 35 yards for a touchdown. Bilton gave New London its score by racing around left end from the two in the fourth. Beckel and West added the points on plunges.

WAR-BUYING IN STOCKS BRINGS PRICE JUMPS

Mild Revival In Market Aids Steels, Motor Trucks, Other Specialties.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—A mild revival of the war-buying urge came into the stock market today and steels, motor trucks, aircrafts and specialties were lifted fractions to more than a point.

While extreme gains were shaded in some cases at the close, many favorites emerged at the day's best levels with a handful in new high territory for the year.

Dealings, slow at the start, picked up a little momentum later with several large blocks of low-priced issues changing hands at about where they finished yesterday. Transfers for the two hours approximated 600,000 shares, or more than double last Saturday's total.

An assortment of recently faint-hearted traders, brokers said, were drawn back into the market by the morning's headlines which indicated the battling European powers intended to push the conflict "to a finish."

Many Still Cautious.

But there were still plenty of Wall Streeters inclined to keep their speculative powder dry pending more light on whether a "war in earnest" is in the offing or whether all the fanfare may be a prelude to a sudden peace.

Motor trucks, in the doldrums for quite a while, came to life on word the French had ordered some 2,000 heavy vehicles in this country and were ready to take on as many more when manufacturers could supply them.

Predictions next week's steel mill operations would register another upturn, together with reports of a fresh flurry of inquiries from home steel consumers, bolstered stocks in this department.

LEGAL NOTICE

John Nottom and Frances Nottom, whose last known place of residence and address was Route 2, Clayton, Wisconsin, will take notice that on October 6, 1939, the undersigned filed his petition in The Common Pleas Court of Richland County, Ohio, alleging that the above named defendants have or claim to have an interest in the following described real estate:

Situated in the County of Richland, in the State of Ohio, and in the City of Mansfield and bounded and described as follows, Being lot number Thirty-seven Hundred and ninety-nine (3799) of the consecutive numberings of lnlots to the City of Mansfield, Ohio.

The undersigned further alleges that he and his predecessors in title have held the open, notorious, adverse, exclusive, continuous and actual possession of said premises for more than 21 years last past; that defendants, John Nottom and Frances Nottom, signed a quit-claim deed to plaintiff for such interest on or about May 13, 1939, but failed to appear before a Notary Public for acknowledgment of the signatures and did not have the same witnessed by two witnesses as required by law. Plaintiff has ever since sought to have this omission corrected, but with due diligence has been unable to find or contact said defendants, and that said deficiency is a cloud upon plaintiff's title to these premises.

The prayer of the petition is that the defendants and each of them may be lawfully notified of the pendency of this action and duly summoned to appear and answer herein, setting forth the nature and extent of their several claims in and to the real estate hereinbefore described; and that the Court may adjudge all of said claims to be illegal and void; that the plaintiff's title to all the premises above described may be quieted, and that the plaintiff may be found and adjudged to be the owner in fee simple of said premises and that the defendants, and each of them, and any and all persons claiming under them, may be forever enjoined and debarred from hereafter asserting any right, title, interest, claim or demand in, or to, said premises or any part thereof, and for such other and further relief as is proper.

That the defendants are required to answer by November 18, 1939, and this cause will be for hearing on or any time thereafter.

HITS POLITICS IN BIGELOW'S PLAN

Speaker Charges He Hopes to Use Pension Move to Win Governor Nomination.

the ballot will be voted on at the Nov. 7 election.

Pauly cited the example of Sheridan Downey, author of the "Ham and Eggs" plan in California, who was elected to the U. S. senate last year although his pension plan was defeated by a small margin. "The same thing could happen here," he said.

"If Bigelow's $310,000,000 pension plan passes in November it will not only bankrupt Ohio, but it will cripple the schools, state hospitals, highway department and take away the pensions the deserving are already receiving," Pauly said.

"Since there is nothing in the plan to provide that deserving persons will receive the $50 a month promised by Bigelow, many deserving persons may not be able to qualify for the pension," he asserted.

One of the requirements is that the persons who receive the pension must be retired wage earners, and that will exempt housewives, farmers, tradesmen and small business men. But even with all the exemptions, it would still cost $310,000,000 a year at the minimum and Ohio can't provide that much without crippling its government and heaping on new taxes," he continued.

"The average city dweller who owns a property valued at $2,000 or more would have to pay an additional two per cent, or 20-mill, tax to finance the plan and then there wouldn't be enough to meet the pensions."

Pauly pointed out that Colorado, which tried a similar plan calling for $45 pensions, has been unable to finance it and pensions for the needy have been cut to pay those who do not need pensions.

"The pension amendment is bad, but the referendum amendment is worse, because it destroys representative government and the initiative in one stroke," Pauly added.

The amendment proposes to reduce the number of signers on petitions to place an amendment on the ballot to a flat 100,000 and to cut the signatures for a vote on a new law to 50,000. The signatures may be obtained in one city, while the present law requires signatures from at least half of the counties with not less than five per cent from any one county.

Pauly warned against a too confident attitude toward defeat of the amendments in the election.

"Minority groups feed on off-year elections and small votes, and they may surprise you this year unless there is an organized campaign against the proposals. You are fooling yourself if you think there is no chance for the plans to pass," he said.

to the rain and cold.

Speculation was aroused, however, by word that the Mondorf and Evrange areas on the French-Luxembourg frontier are being evacuated—as though the French had planned, or were expecting the Germans to make a thrust through that district.

Activity behind the German line has been suspended, with no more reinforcements being reported.

Britain announced today:

1. A quarter of a million more troops of the ages of 20 and 21 had enrolled for active service.

2. A second wave of reinforcements for the British expeditionary force is en route to France.

Believe Nazis Hope To Deal With France.

BERLIN —(AP)— Official Nazi sources let it be known today that Germany has accepted what she regards as the challenge of Great Britain and France.

Adolf Hitler made a peace offer once, it was said in sources close to the foreign office, and if the hatchet is to be buried now the initiative must come from the other side.

Both DNB, official German News agency, and spokesmen in high places cautioned against assuming on the basis of the Thursday war communique that Germany was making conciliatory gestures toward France.

The communique said that the German army had refrained from stepping across the French border at a moment when conditions seemed auspicious because of the withdrawal of French troops. (French reports said, however, that the Germans had won a toehold on French soil near Luxembourg.)

The communique today acknowledged that French troops still held two heights close to the border in the Warndt Forest region west of SaarBrucken, but it said these were the only French holdings on German soil.

The Thursday communique was said to have been interpreted in some neutral and enemy newspapers as a sign that Germany hoped to deal with France and was hesitating, therefore, to launch an impressive offensive.
